TREES BEAUTIFY DOWNTOWN WARREN

Downtown Warren is blooming this week with 55 flowering crab and cork trees, planted by the borough parks department in cooperation with the Warren Garden Club. Marcy Whitaker, 8, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry B. Whitaker, was persuaded to add a bit of little girl charm to the scene while holding her brother Tom's dog, Little Joe. More than $2,500 has been contributed by local citizens and businesses to pay for the first 55 trees and it is hoped this is only a beginning toward a much larger planting. The trees are planted in concrete containers and around the base Garden Club members have added ivy, geraniums, petunias, marigolds, zinnias and other colorful annuals. Club officials thank the 60 persons who contributed funds to pay the initial cost of the trees and containers. A number of trees were purchased as living memorials to the following: Mrs. Raymond Steber, D. C. Larimer, Ernest Hagenlocher, Mr. and Mrs. David H. Culbertson, James Parish, Dr. and Mrs. Michael V. Ball, Howard Alexander, James Miller, Carl Lundahl, Dr. and Mrs. L. E. Chapman, Mrs. David L. Hallock, John Mendell Hunter, Walter F. Legislatures Enacting Laws To Curb Campus Disorders

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
State legislatures across the country are enacting laws to curb campus protests and punish the protesters.

Laws already enacted and others under discussion carry such penalties as jail terms, fines or mandatory expulsion for students involved in campus disorders. Others ban loudspeakers and controversial visitors from campuses.

Eight states have new laws designed to curb campus demonstrations, according to an Associated Press survey. They are Ohio, Maryland, Colorado, Idaho, Indiana, Minnesota, Oregon and North Dakota.

Numerous others are considering measures of varying toughness to deal with the problem.

Ohio led the pack, having passed in its last General Assembly a bill empowering boards of trustees to expel campus rioters.

The Maryland legislature has approved a law allowing state senators to cut off state scholarship money to campus rioters. Similar proposals are under consideration in Wisconsin, Connecticut, Michigan and Illinois.

The Connecticut legislature

11 Persons Killed in Pa. Traffic Mishaps

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
At least 11 persons were killed in traffic accidents in Pennsylvania over the long Memorial Day weekend as hundreds of thousands took to the highways and beaches and temperatures ranged into the 80s and 90s under sunny skies.

Four other persons drowned and one man perished in a fire that wrecked his bedroom during the 78-hour period that began at 6 p.m. Thursday and ended at midnight Sunday.

During a comparable three-day period two weeks ago, the Associated Press counted 15 killed in traffic accidents and four drownings.

Forty-two persons died in traffic accidents in the state during the 102-hour Memorial Day holiday weekend last year.

also will consider a measure requiring public universities and colleges to dismiss students who participate in violent or disruptive demonstration.

Sounding a note echoed by state legislatures elsewhere, Connecticut State Rep. Stanley Blagos told the House campus protest measures constitute "one of the hottest issues in this session of the General Assembly."

Colorado legislators approved a bill imposing up to a year in jail and a $500 fine on student demonstrators. Eight persons have been accused under the measure of disrupting a talk by Dr. S.I. Hayakawa, acting president of San Francisco State College.

The outcome of the Colorado case may provide the first constitutional test of such measures.

Idaho, too, has a new law, providing up to a year's imprisonment for certain convicted campus demonstrators.

In Indiana, a person who is ordered by college officials to leave campus and fails to do so may be sent to jail for six months and fined $500 under a recently passed law.

Memorial Day Weekend Toll Threatens to Break Record

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The traffic death toll for the Memorial Day weekend passed the 500 mark late Sunday and threatened to break the record of 542 deaths for a three-day Memorial Day holiday set in 1966.

A spokesman for the National Safety Council said the death toll "seems almost certain to equal or exceed" the 1966 record.

Traffic accidents have killed 501 persons during the holiday period. During a similar 78-hour nonholiday period recently 481

Pompidou, Pohrer Face Run-Off In French Election

PARIS (AP)—Frenchmen voted Sunday to send former Premier Georges Pompidou and interim President Alain Pohrer into a run-off presidential election June 15 in which Communist votes could decide which of the two middle-of-the-road candidates would replace Charles de Gaulle.

Running virtually as strongly as De Gaulle did in the first round of the 1965 presidential balloting, Pompidou polled near 45 per cent of the votes.

But it was not a majority and he was forced into a run-off with Pohrer. The interim president totaled 23.6 per cent, just ahead of Communist Jacques Duclos with 21 per cent.

Duclos' strong race meant the Communists could bargain for their votes in the second round. They were more likely to offer them to Pohrer than Pompidou, their old Gaullist enemy, but party sources said abstention would be under consideration when the party's leadership meets Monday.

"We see the future with optimism," Duclos said, but he would not define his party's stand for the run-off. Duclos had said earlier that choosing between Pompidou and Pohrer was like picking "cholera or the plague."

Pompidou called on Pohrer to withdraw from the second round, but Pohrer said he would stay in the race because "the country showed its desire for change."

"The real presidential election begins now," Pohrer said.

Official returns covering about 90 per cent of the registered voters gave Pompidou 9,046,771 or 44.41 per cent; Pohrer 4,773,070 or 23.43 per cent; and Duclos 4,302,472 or 21.12 per cent.

France has about 29 million registered voters, but more than six million did not cast their ballots.

Socialist Gaston Defferre had 1,028,824 or 5.05 per cent; leftist Socialist Michael Rocard 738,265 or 3.62 per cent; right wing millionaire Louis Ducatel 264,282 or 1.29 per cent, and Trotskyist Alain Krivine 214,790 or 1.05 per cent.

If Pohrer were to win Communist and leftist backing for the second round Pompidou would press his contention that Pohrer would be forced to compromise with the Communists once in office.

Duclos' showing gave his party in any case a dominant position within French left-wing politics which disintegrated into disunity before the presidential election.

The voting showed Pompidou could hold onto traditional areas of Gaullist strength.

Pohrer, who peaked in popularity in mid-May then seemed to lose strength as his personality became better known, did not win a large city. In his own hometown of Ablon, he got less than 50 per cent of the votes.

The vote in broadest terms gave good indications that France more than anything else seeks the security of a center way, although there was the paradox that the left could decide the eventual outcome of the presidential vote.

The issue of a change of style away from the Gaullist era already had been resolved before

U.S., Japan Negotiate For Return of Okinawa

WASHINGTON (AP)—Japan and the United States open politically charged negotiations Monday to set a time—possibly 1972—for the return of Okinawa to Japan's administrative control. The United States wants continued use of its major military base facilities on the strategic island.

President Nixon arranged to meet the chief Japanese negotiator, Foreign Minister Kichii Aichi at 10:30 a.m. EDT following his return from Key Biscayne strategy talks with Secretary of State William P. Rogers over the holiday weekend.

Okinawa figured in the Florida talks although Vietnam was the key issue.

While the White House meeting with Aichi is labeled a courtesy session, aides said it serves to underline the importance President Nixon is placing on the negotiations with Japan. He is reported confident that a satisfactory solution can be worked out by the time a meeting takes place here in November with Prime Minister Eisaku Sato to set the date for Okinawa's reversion.

Authoritative sources said that the president, Rogers, Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird and a former U.S. Ambassador to Japan, U. Alexis Johnson, will stress that the United States wants to retain maximum freedom of use of the Okinawa bases.

Under existing conditions in the Far East, it is felt this is necessary to carry out the U.S. security commitments to Japan and to other allied nations in northeast Asia such as South Korea and Taiwan.

However, the United States will not take a completely rigid attitude, and Aichi will be told.

The Japanese foreign minister is expected to make a strong request for the United States to reach an early decision on setting the date for restoring the one million Okinawans to Japanese rule after American occupation since 1945. Aichi is expected to ask that the same rules which govern the deployment of U.S. military forces on the Japanese home islands under the U.S.-Japan security treaty be applied in Okinawa.

Aichi is expected to tell Nixon and Rogers that Prime Minister Sato faces major political pressures from the combined opposition and must find an adequate solution to the Okinawa question or see his government perish at the polls.

Aichi will meet with Secretary of Commerce Maurice Stans on textile and trade issues and with Secretary of the Treasury David Kennedy on the U.S. balance-of-payments problem before ending his visit here on Friday.

Humphrey Being Urged To Run for Governor

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—Hubert H. Humphrey is being urged by some aides and state politicians to consider running for governor of Minnesota rather than senator next year when Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy's seat becomes open to challenge.

And McCarthy is still described as considering whether he wants to run for re-election as senator from Minnesota—and if so, whether as a Democrat or an Independent.

One McCarthy friend said the senator is not so much interested in returning to the Senate as he is in seeking the presidency as an Independent in 1972.

But when an old guard precinct in the state's Democratic Farmer-Labor party passed a resolution announcing it would not support McCarthy in 1970, the move was interpreted by McCarthy aides as inspired by Humphrey supporters.

Thus the suspense still hangs heavy over the future of the two former political friends who played major—and often antagonistic—roles in the 1968 Democratic presidential politics.

Humphrey himself has not expressed interest in the governorship, indicating instead he would like to return to the Senate.

One state party official said, "Most of the people interested in Humphrey want him back in the Senate, and labor wants him back in the Senate."

"There's another group who would like to see him win the governorship from the Republicans," this official added. "The state legislators are really hot for the idea. They see Humphrey running for governor as an easy campaign for them. They see it as a sure thing."

When asked whether he will seek re-election in 1970 McCarthy is noncommittal, saying: "That's an open question . . . I said last year I wouldn't ask young people to support the Democratic Party process again unless significant reforms were made."

Two Face Long Terms For Inciting Riots

CORDOBA, Argentina (AP)—Two labor leaders began long jail terms Sunday after a military court convicted them of helping incite riots which left 11 persons dead and 50 wounded in Cordoba, auto-making center of Argentina.

Shooting broke out again Saturday night and continued early Sunday, hampering efforts to restore order and clean up the debris of two days of the bloodiest rioting Argentina has known in years.

The shots apparently were exchanged by troops and snipers perched on rooftops.

Agustin Jose Tosco, head of Cordoba's light and power workers union, and Elpidio Angel Torres, head of the city's motor mechanics union, were flown from here to begin serving their terms at an undisclosed spot.

Tosco got eight years and three months; Torres four years.

They were charged with "public incitement and collusion in rebellion." They were tried before one of the military courts established last week by President Juan Carlos Onganía to deal with crimes stemming from the three weeks of almost daily rioting in various cities that has left 17 dead and shaken Onganía's military regime.

The military court in Cordoba also has sentenced two workers to jail terms for "wanton damage: One got seven years, the other three.

More than 180 stores were damaged in the rioting that began Thursday when police fired on striking auto workers. That fighting ended early Saturday and the damage is estimated at more than $6 million.

More than 300 persons have been arrested, including two Roman Catholic priests.

Gen. Alejandro Lanusse, Argentina's army commander flew here Saturday to confer with the commanders of the 3rd Army occupying Cordoba. After his arrival, it was announced that troops will remain in Cordoba until order is fully restored.

Troops joined municipal workers in cleaning the debris from the streets and removing vehicles burned or overturned in the rioting. A nighttime curfew for the civilian population of 600,000 remained in effect.

50 High School Marchers Collapse from Heat Exhaustion

PITTSBURGH (AP) — About 50 members of a high school marching band collapsed on the street from heat exhaustion during a parade through the downtown area Sunday.

Rescue workers administered oxygen and applied cold water to the bodies of the gasping marchers, members of the Clairton High School band. Fifteen of the youths were taken to hospitals, but were released after treatment.

None of the 81 other marching units in the parade were affected and Clairton school officials blamed the incident on the uniforms used by the marchers. The band director said the black and orange trimmed uniforms contain acetate and apparently did not permit sufficient air circulation. The temperature was in the 80s.

"We're a fast marching unit and these kids work so hard," said Don Calligara.

About half of the Clairton band was stricken. Most of them were girls, members of a majorette group called the "The Honeybears." Officials said later the girls' uniforms would be discarded.

The marchers began reeling and falling to the pavement as the unit approached the reviewing stand. Police, band personnel and citizens carried the youngsters into the lobby of a nearby office building.

The parade was held in conjunction with the opening of a four-day convention of the Pennsylvania State Lions Club.

Jamestown Area Plants Release Vacation Closings

JAMESTOWN, N.Y. — Sixty per cent of the Jamestown area's manufacturing plants have released summer vacation closings dates according to an announcement made over the weekend by the Jamestown Area Manufacturers Association.

In addition, the announcement said, 16 other manufacturers will not close during the summer months. Vacations for employees in the latter group will be arranged on an individual basis.

The companies scheduled to shut down for vacation and the dates for each are:

Adanlock, June 28-July 8; American Manufacturing, Van Stee, Micro-Line and Watson, June 27-July 7; Amso-Excel and Hydraulic, June 26-July 14; Anderson Screw, Crawford Bros. Furniture, Crescent Tool, Dahlstroms, Jamestown Plywood Division, (AVM), June 28-July 14; Art Metal, June 28-July 16; AVM Corp., Union National and Hope's Windows, July 3-July 14; Burns Case Goods, Blackstone Corp., Elison Bronze, Falconer Plate Glass, Jamestown Electroplating, Jamestown Finishes, Jamestown Lounge, Jamestown Products, Kling Furniture, Royalmetal, Sterlingworth, and Truck Lite, all June 27-July 14.

Also Dawson Metal, Monarch Fuse and Jamestown Metal, July 3-July 21; Blystone Mattress, June 27-July 8; Corry-Jamestown, July 21-Aug. 4; MRC-TW, June 27-July 13; Monitor, July 2-July 14.

The 16 not scheduled for summer shutdowns include:

Ajax, Borden, Carborundum, Chautauqua Chemical, Hy-Grade, Jamestown Mutual Insurance, Jamestown Perforators, Jamestown Telephone Corp., Justrite Division, Mason Carvings, Niagara Mohawk Power Corp., Pennsylvania Gas Co., Ring Punch and Die, Sprinchorn, Vacair Alloys, and Weber-Knapp.

A health department spokesman said the engineers will begin working in the Jamestown-Frewsburg area this week. Also assisting in the study will be representatives from the Chautauqua County Health Department.

A brilliant red dye will be used in the water at various places to assist scientists in measuring the flow and velocity of the three rivers. Officials said the dye is harmless to humans and has no detrimental effect on farm animals. Laboratory studies to measure the level of pollution due to domestic sewage and industrial wastes will also be undertaken.

Following completion of the study, scientists and engineers will be able to determine how long it takes for each of the three streams to cleanse itself of a certain load of industrial or domestic pollution. State and federal engineers say they will be better able to advise the type of waste treatment facilities industries should install to abate their pollution when the study is completed.

Venezuela Asks Rocky To Reschedule Visit

PORT OF SPAIN, Trinidad (AP) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, catching a breathing spell from the turbulence that has punctuated his Latin American fact-finding mission, said Sunday he was "rescheduling" his next stop in Venezuela in order to avert more bloodshed.

The New York governor told newsmen he had agreed to a request by President Rafael Calderon of Venezuela to put off his visit to Caracas Monday because of threatened disorders.

Rockefeller said "extremists are out to destroy the unity between the United States and her Latin American neighbors," and he added, "We must recognize what our friends are up against."

Student rioting culminated in grave violence while Rockefeller was visiting Quito, Ecuador, last week. He was forced to cut short his trip to Bolivia to three hours Saturday because of possible violence there and flew here a day ahead of schedule.

Venezuela was to have been the last stop on the second leg of Rockefeller's mission. He now is to fly back to New York Monday.

Venezuela's request that Rockefeller postpone his visit indefinitely was made after the country's Cabinet met in a special session in Caracas.

In a statement afterwards Venezuelan Foreign Minister Aristide Calvani said: "Lamentably, the circumstances within which Gov. Rockefeller's trip have developed until now, far from achieving the fundamental objectives sought by his visit, have resulted in acts which could harm and even upset the future relations between the United States and Latin America."

Campus

University of Minnesota administration building in January prompted that state's legislators to pass a law forbidding demonstrators from blocking sidewalks and streets, staging sit-ins in buildings or otherwise disrupting public colleges or state and local government.

The law allows such school and government division to set forth its own detailed regulations on the subject.

A bill permitting Oregon's governor to declare an emergency when violence threatens any public property was passed this session. Sponsors said it would allow local officials to bar outsiders thought by the officials to threaten violence.

North Dakota now requires school officials to file charges against campus offenders.

lost control of his car on a curve and the vehicle skidded back and forth across the road before jumping a bank, flying across a creek and hitting broadside a cement wall. His condition was listed as satisfactory.

Charges are pending against three persons involved in one-car accident early Sunday on Rt. 6 in Pittsfield. The car operated by a 16-year-old Warren boy ran off the road and hit an embankment and rolled over. The youth is to be arraigned today on charges of reckless driving and driving without a license. Also to be arraigned are the owner of the car, Dennis L. Jordan, RD 1, Youngsville, for giving the minor permission to drive the car and Dorothy Conner, 116 Pennsylvania ave. e., who together with Jordan will be charged with furnishing intoxicating beverage to a minor, state police said.

Constance Karr, 41, 342 River rd., was treated at Warren General Hospital following a collision on Third ave. at Poplar st. She was driving east on Third when a car operated by Samuel Lewis, 62, 32 Pine st., northbound on Poplar st., pulled into the intersection, police said. Lewis was charged with a right of way infraction.

State police reported a rear end collision Sunday on Rt. 59 eight miles east of Warren. Lee C. Allen, 51, 1403 Huren st., Toledo, Ohio stopped as a car ahead turned left and was hit from behind by an auto driven by Jack Walter, 54, Kinzua Heights, Star Rt., Bradford.

Military-Industrial Bureaucracy Portends Permanent U.S. Arms Race

WASHINGTON (AP) — A vast military-industrial bureaucracy threatens to turn the United States into a national security state locked in a permanent arms race, says a group of former government officials, weapons experts and members of Congress.

A report on a recent conference held by the group directs an urgent appeal to Congress to try to regain what it describes as lost control over the military establishment.

The place for Congress to be, the report says, is in the current fight over installation of an antiballistic missile system and in efforts to stop the fighting in Vietnam.

"If the ABM or the war in Vietnam cannot be stopped, Congress may well become no more than an ornamental debating society and the impotence of our political institutions will be manifest," the report says.

It is based on a two-day conference held here late in March on military spending and its relations to the nation's other needs.

Nine senators and 36 representatives signed the report. Among those outside Congress who participated in the conference were several former high-ranking officials in the Eisenhower, Kennedy and Johnson administrations. Eight of the sponsoring senators and all the representatives are Democrats.

The report says during the past 20 years Congress remained silent and the civilian guardians of the military failed in their responsibility while a national security apparatus spreading through government, industry and labor grew uncontrolled.

It now is a colossus astride the land, the report says, gobbling up 80 per cent of all federal expenditures, setting foreign policy, starving domestic programs and keeping the world in fear of nuclear war.

The report calls on the Nixon administration to undertake immediate arms-control talks with Russia and to delay deploying the Safeguard ABM system and testing multiple warhead missiles (MIRV) while the talks are proceeding.

The report urges Congress to force a re-examination of U.S. military commitments abroad and to insist on a reduction in the number of overseas military bases and in the size of the standing army.

It advises Congress to develop its own sources of information so it can challenge the spending and policy judgments of the Defense Department.

Another Cleavage in U.S. Society Evident in Farm-Subsidy Action

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress gave evidence of another cleavage in U.S. society last week when the House voted to limit farm-subsidy payments in a move led by city-dwelling congressmen.

The action was taken in the face of strong opposition from the administration and the leaders of both parties—and in the almost certain knowledge it would be undone in the Senate, where friends of the large farmer hold key positions.

But the large urban-suburban bloc didn't care. It put the $20,000 payment limitation into a $6.8-billion appropriation bill for the Agriculture Department by a roll-call vote of 224 to 142.

In doing so it served notice that it is tired of approving programs that help the constituents of rural representatives many of whom consistently vote against programs for the cities.

The House vote also indicated that non-farm congressmen no longer are willing to accept without question the dark mysteries of farm programs that are supposed to help the small farmer by paying the big ones as much as $3 million a year not to grow something.

"Isn't there something basically and tragically wrong with this legislation?" asked a Chicago Democrat, Rep. Roman L. Pucinski, after hearing that in the years it has been in existence the number of farm families has dwindled from 25 per cent of the population to less than 10 per cent. And that the farmer fared worse in the market place last year than he did in 1950.

Nobody answered Pucinski but the current farm program expires next year and Secretary of Agriculture Clifford M. Hardin has said he plans some new departures when he draws up his own program.

Besides throwing its weight on the losing side, the House leadership suffered a strategic setback in the vote. It sought to capitalize on the well known homing instinct of the Eastern congressman by taking up the bill on Monday when few can be found in Washington.

It almost worked. In the Monday legislative session the amendment was approved by a vote of only 112 to 100, but it was sufficient to get it before the House for formal adoption the next day when the Tuesday-to-Thursday crowd was on hand.

That the way of the economist in Congress is hard was demonstrated in another appropriations bill passed last week by the House—an $8.7 billion measure for the Post Office and Treasury Departments.

One provision in the bill repealed a limitation on employment in the Treasury Department adopted last year in a triumph for the economy bloc.

The hiring restriction saved an estimated $23 million. But the trouble was, Secretary of the Treasury David M. Kennedy told the House Appropriations Committee, the saving cost $500 million in lost revenue.

He said this was the added amount the government could have collected if it had had the added auditors and agents.

They were accused of operating an illegal gambling network in Rome with police protection. Investigators accused Scire, crack investigator and for years chief of Rome's elite flying squad of crime busters, of having accepted payoffs to protect gambling dens hidden away in private houses.

Scire was jailed after the arrest of three other policemen—agent Giacomo Magli, who had worked directly under Scire, and two carabinieri (national police) sergeants.

Scire turned himself in to police in Rome Saturday night. Early Sunday morning he was taken to Grosseto, north of Rome, and jailed there to avoid putting him in the Rome city jail, where he would be thrust among many criminals he himself had arrested.

With the arrest of Scire, the three other policemen and a group of private citizens named in the gambling scandal, 17 persons were taken into custody over the weekend. At least five others were still sought.

Scire, 49, is a Sicilian who began his police career on the bandit-infested island of Sardinia.

It was Scire himself who first began the investigation into gambling which led to his arrest.

Scire and the other accused policemen were charged with corruption, disclosing public office secrets and abetting gambling.

Record Steel Production Seen This Year

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Developments since an upturn in operations last December lend weight to the probability of record production of raw steel in the United States this year, Steel magazine said Monday.

It said the record 134.1 million net tons produced in 1966 may be topped by two million tons and explained the estimate is based on:

—The outlook for continued active steel consumption through the remainder of the year.

—A likely falloff of 22 to 33 per cent in the 1969 imports, necessitating greater dependence of consumers on domestic mill shipments.

—An expected rise of more than 60 per cent in imports this year to more than 3.5 million tons. This would be the largest since 1964 when steel exports totaled 3.7 million tons.

"Raw steel output by the domestic industry in the first half of this year may hit 70.6 million net tons," the magazine said. "That's short by more than 4 per cent of the record 73.6 million poured in the like 1968 period, and is based on the assumption weekly production through June will vary little from the average of 2.8 million tons in May."

The metalworking publication estimated that last week's steel production totaled 2,810,000 net tons, unchanged from the preceding week when a decline of two-tenths of one per cent was recorded.

"Mill shipments of finished steel are seen topping 24.5 million net tons this quarter, bringing the total for the first half of the year to more than 47 million tons," Steel said. "That's 10 per cent behind the record 52.6 million tons moved in the first six months of 1968, when mills were under pressure for strike-hedge tonnage, but it's 11 per cent ahead of the 42.4 million shipped in the like 1967 period."

The upturn in scrap prices continues as a result of strong export demand. Steel's price composite on the No. 1 grade of steelmaking scrap advanced 33 cents to $30 a gross ton last week.

New Cigarette Prices Set

Warner M. Deputy, Secretary of Revenue, today announced a new schedule of minimum prices under the Unfair Cigarette Sales Act. This new schedule shows general increases in consumer's cost of 7 cents per carton for many brands of cigarettes. The increase is due to the announcement by most of the manufacturers that prices were increased 35 cents per thousand on orders placed after Monday, May 26, 1969, and is not from any increase in taxes.

Smokers will now pay at least $3.56 per carton and 36 cents a pack for most regulars, king sizes and filters. The 100 millimeter brands generally will retail at $3.66 a carton and 37 cents per package.

Russian Orthodox Church Develops 'Communist Christianity'

MOSCOW (AP) — The Russian Orthodox Church has found new favor here by developing "Communist Christianity."

This accepts the Communist social system as just and good and supports Kremlin policies. It plays down the philosophic conflict between the Christian faith and the atheistic materialism officially espoused by the government.

Notable evidence of a changed attitude toward the church appears in the latest issue of the magazine Nauka i Religiya (Science and Religion), the leading Soviet publication on religious matters. The magazine used to assail religion and proclaim the need for its disappearance from Soviet life.

The new article praises the Russian Orthodox Church for turning to Communist Christianity, citing pronouncements by Orthodox leaders and theologians to show they associate the Soviet system with the kingdom of God on earth.

The previous issue of the magazine, taking a similarly favorable attitude, wrote admiringly of church members as good Soviet citizens. It referred to polls taken recently which were said to have confirmed this.

The new attitude in Nauka i Religiya reflected an apparent Kremlin attempt toward further reconciliation with religion. The Post-Khrushchev leadership seems ready to live with the Orthodox church as part of the national heritage. It has made a general attempt to end divisive quarrels and rally all groups in the country.

In an unusual move, the government is promoting a meeting in Moscow July 1-4 of Soviet religious leaders of all faiths. They are to discuss peace and international friendship, two favorite Communist propaganda themes.

The support they are expected to give Kremlin policies would be in line with the status churches have come to occupy in Soviet society. By approving the regime they have been allowed to continue functioning, though with restrictions meant to hold down their following, such as those on training new clergy and instructing the young.

Nauka i Religiya dealt only with the Russian Orthodox Church, which still claims 50 million members despite early Communist persecution and which historically has been a main support of the Russian state.

The magazine praised the church for giving up its old alliance with capitalism and its concentration on the inner state of man and the afterlife in favor of more emphasis on social justice and general human welfare on earth.

The magazine commented, however, that because of the refusal of the church to accept Marxism completely it "would never become a factor of historical progress," but it hailed the

V.C. Gunners Fire Rockets, Mortar Shells into Saigon

SAIGON (AP) — Enemy gunners fired rockets and mortar shells overnight into the capital of Saigon, three U.S. military field headquarters areas and an allied airfield, authorities said Monday.

Two persons were listed as killed and 25 others, most of them children, were wounded, by a Russian-made 122mm rocket that crashed into Saigon's densely populated 4th Precinct before dawn. Eleven houses were destroyed or damaged.

The precinct is known as "rocket alley" because it has taken a heavy toll over the years from enemy rockets fired from marshy rice paddies outside the city. This was the first rocket attack on the capital since May 17.

Over-all casualties on the shelled military sites were said to be light.

Shortly before midnight, U.S. headquarters said, the base camp of the 11th Light Infantry Brigade, 105 miles southeast of Da Nang, was hit by about 10 rounds of 140mm rocket fire. A few minutes later, about 10 rounds of 122mm rockets landed in the base camp headquarters of the 24th corps at Phu Bai, 40 miles northwest of Da Nang.

About the same time, 30 rounds of 120mm mortar fire slammed into the base camp of the U.S. 1st Infantry Division at Lai Lai, 28 miles northeast of Saigon. A nearby artillery base was hit with 208 mortar rounds.

The airfield shelled was at Dak To, in the central highlands, 280 miles northeast of Saigon, where sharp ground fighting broke out recently. Headquarters said about 10 rounds of 122 mm rocket fire hit there and that U.S. and South Vietnamese army casualties were light.

The U.S. Command does not disclose specific casualty tolls or damage at so-called fixed installations, maintaining this gives information to the enemy.

No significant ground fighting was reported early Monday, but heavy B52 strikes were logged. Spokesmen said there were eight missions overnight against enemy troop concentrations, bunker complexes, base camps and weapons positions. The strikes ranged from near Dak To in the highlands to 59 miles northwest of Saigon.

In predawn darkness Sunday, North Vietnamese troops attacked U.S. Marines encamped 20 miles below the demilitarized zone but were hurled back by small-arms and machine-gun fire.

Seventeen of the enemy were killed in the assault on Leathernecks of the 9th Regiment, spokesmen said. U.S. casualties were three killed and seven wounded.

At Dak To, 260 miles northeast of Saigon, North Vietnamese troops moved in behind a barrage of mortar fire to storm a South Vietnamese district headquarters. The attackers were beaten back after an hour by bombers and artillery.

Two South Vietnamese soldiers were reported killed and four wounded in the clash at Dak To. Enemy casualties were not known.

Trees Over Humans

Offhand, it would seem that white pine trees are getting a better break than human beings. At least this is the conclusion one could reach after reading a recent research paper put out by the Northeast Forest Experiment Station in Upper Darby. For while humans are being allowed to suffer the effects of air pollution without much being done about the health-destroying properties of the air we breathe, except as atmospheric pollution is being diluted by the vast volume of hot air billowing out from the Halls of Congress, the white pine is enjoying the benefits derived from an intensive study being made by a qualified research scientist.

If one is to accept the implication of this study, it is far more important that air pollution (concentrations of sulphur dioxide and ozone) is destroying the chlorophyll which creates the white pine's food supply and is thereby stunting the growth of certain trees than the fact that this same type of air pollution is destroying the lungs of our children and thereby denying them the full joys of living.

However, L. S. Dochinger, who is conducting the study, is to be commended. At least he has found a possible solution to the problem in that certain trees are immune to the effects of air pollution and the resistance factor is hereditary. Therefore he has instituted a further study that suggests that through selective breeding he can produce a strain of white pine trees capable of living in an air-polluted world without suffering any adverse effects.

When one considers the fact that certain individuals in the human race seem to be less susceptible to the effects of air pollution than others, as well as the fact that air pollution goes on unabated year after year, only one question can come to mind. Will the time ever come when hereditary planning, rather than family planning, will be the sole means of perpetuating the human race?

Our Firemen

Warren's firefighters won the praise of hundreds of spectators last Thursday with the professional manner in which they brought under control the fire at the Warren City Bus Barn.

The day was also an example of the teamwork displayed so many times by the county volunteer fire departments. North Warren and Clarendon came to Warren for the bus barn fire. As it was being brought under control, Glade was called to a trailer fire on Fifth avenue extension.

The Glade boys needed help. North Warren and Clarendon had been standing by and were quick to respond; as did the newly formed department in Scandia.

We are fortunate to have this kind of protection.

WHAT OTHERS SAY...

A Time for Tax Reform

What is't to us if taxes rise or fall?
Thanks to our fortune, we pay none at all.
—Charles Churchill, 1762

A sound tax system distributes the cost of government fairly by income classes. A mockery is made of that principle when people with high incomes pay no taxes at all and yet live within the letter and spirit of the Federal tax law.

After six years of White House neglect, the cause of tax reform has been taken up by President Nixon. The proposals he sent to Congress last April would put a 50 per cent ceiling on the total income that can be hidden from taxation through such shelters as mineral depletion allowances, fast depreciation of real property, farm losses and gains in the value of property given to charity. An individual would have to pay taxes on half his total income, no matter how much was shielded by these specific tax preferences.

While the Administration points in the right direction, its program for reform is weak. If the tentative reform proposals recently announced by the House Ways and Means Committee accurately reflect the mood of Congress — and they usually do — it should be possible to enact much stronger legislation.

Two of the important loopholes that would be wholly unaffected by the Administration's proposal are the exemption from taxation of interest paid on state and local government bonds — the so-called "municipals" — and the nontaxation of the capital gains on assets transferred at time of death. Tax-exempt bonds do enable local governments to borrow at lower rates of interest. But the issuing of new "municipals" now causes the Federal Treasury to lose more in tax revenues than the local governments save. As a means of answering both ends of the problem, a proposal has been made in the House Ways and Means Committee that the Treasury reimburse the states and localities for the higher interest that they would have to pay if no more tax-exempt municipals could be issued. Such a scheme is in consonance with more general proposals for Federal revenue sharing with the states and cities.

A proposal for taxing the capital gains on bequeathed assets was put forward by the Kennedy Administration in 1963. It should be now reintroduced in this session of Congress. At the same time a direct assault should be made on the 27.5 per cent depletion allowances on income from sales of oil and gas. Chairman Wilbur D. Mills of the Ways and Means Committee has thrown his weight on the side of those who would reduce the depletion allowances, thus brightening the prospects for narrowing, if not closing, one of the more notorious of the tax loopholes.

Elimination of the glaring inequities of the tax system is essential to rebuild confidence in the whole structure of representative government. Fifty-four Democratic members of the House have urged that the income surtax, scheduled to expire at the end of June, be extended by a continuing resolution until Congress has had the time to work out a truly effective reform bill. That proposal has the virtue of combining fiscal responsibility with the pressures necessary to achieve genuine tax reform. — The New York Times.

Park Proposal in Danger

HARRISBURG — As it has in nearly every field, Pennsylvania apparently is destined to continue to lag behind the leaders in another area — this time in the field of establishing a system of non-competitive semi-posh lodges and chalet-cabins in Pennsylvania state parks.

Legislation to establish (belatedly) such a system — long since in operation in more than a dozen more progressive states — apparently has been snagged in the State Senate and is in danger of being killed by a small pocket of petulant opposition.

At this point the development comes somewhat as a surprise for in the early going the two-bill package proposed by Senate Democratic Leader Ernest P. Kline moved along easily and appeared headed for rapid legislative approval.

Under the measures, "vacation villages" consisting of a most pleasant and inviting lodge and a scattering of chalet/cabins would be constructed in three parks along with the recreational facilities — to make the areas year-round attractions.

The program would be financed through a $12.3 million bond issue with the bonds amortized by revenues produced by facilities, thus making them self-liquidating and self-sustaining.

Senator Kline, who had 26 co-sponsors on the two measures, (28 votes are needed for passage), introduced the package on April 14. One week later, it was released by the Senate Forests and Waters Committee, but at this point the wheel stopped turning.

There has been no action on the proposal since then, and according to new rules in the Senate regarding legislative procedures, bills upon which there has been no action after ten days on the daily calendar are returned to committee. In nearly all cases, this means such bills are dead for the remainder of the session.

The lodges and chalet/cabins proposal has been on the calendar for eight legislative days. Tomorrow, June 3, will be the ninth day.

Several columns on this proposal have been written by this columnist dating as far back as last August when research on the project was barely underway. Most of the information in the early stages was gleaned from Senator Kline's offices, but recently this columnist took a "see for myself" trip to West Virginia, one of the national leaders in lodge and cabin development.

West Virginia's system boasts seven lodges and several hundred chalet-cabins — and the state currently is involved in a $28 million expansion program!

We visited three lodges in two days — Cacapon, near Berkeley Springs; Mont Chateau, near Morgantown, and Blackwater Falls in mid-state.

Cacapon is located in the middle of a rolling, well-groomed lawn of several acres in size and has a high-walled mountain ridge as a backdrop; Mont Chateau stands on the shore of deep, blue and vast Cheat Lake, and Blackwater Falls nestles on the edge of a steep, rocky canyon very much like Pennsylvania's own Grand Canyon at Wellsboro.

These lodges were designed to blend with their natural surroundings and they do so with almost unbelievable beauty. They are popular in West Virginia and are filled to near-capacity during the summer months (West Virginia is including winter recreational facilities in its expansion program and will now operate on a year-round basis).

The cost for a single room at Blackwater Falls was $7.14 (winter rates, it's $2 higher in the summer). My dinner, lobster tail with all the trimmings, was a very reasonable $4.25.

This is what Pennsylvania can have — or miss — depending on the fate of the two bills.

My Favorite Limerick

A limerick — as if you didn't know — is a five-line humorous verse. The only person I ever met who could devise one instantaneously was Dan Parker, once sports editor of the New York Mirror. He could make them up about anyone or anything he knew and he always managed to toss a hiccup of Irish laughter in the last line.

For some reason which escapes me, most limericks are ree-naughty. Not evil; but slightly erotic. Yesterday a book arrived entitled "The Lure of the Limerick," by William S. Baring-Gould and published by Potter. I went to bed proposing to read a few. At 4:45 a. m. this morning I finished the book and my sleeping wife mumbled: "Must you shake the bed when you laugh?"

Permit me to select a few printable ones: "There once was a sculptor named Phidias/Whose manners in art were invidious; He carved Aphrodite/Without any nightie/Which startled the Ultrafastidious."

"There was a young lady named Bright/Whose speed was faster than light; She went out one day/In a relative way/And returned the previous night."

"There was a young man from Toledo/Who traveled about incognito; The reason he did was to bolster his id/While appeasing his savage libido."

"The limerick packs laughs anatomical/Into space that is quite economical; But the good ones are so seldom a clean/And the clean ones are so seldom comical."

"There was a fat lady of Nantucket/Who kept all his cash in a bucket; But his daughter named Nan, Ran away with a man; And as for the bucket, Nantucket."

"There was a young fellow named Hall/Who fell in the spring in the fall; 'Twould have been a sad thing Had he died in the Spring, But he didn't — he died in the fall."

A naughty one: "There was a fat lady of Clyde/Whose shoelaces once became untied; She feared that to bend Would display her rear end/So she cried and she cried and she cried."

"A thrifty young fellow of Shoreham/Made brown paper trousers and wore them; He looked nice and neat Till he bent in the street; To pick up a pin and he tore them."

"Now what in the world shall we do/With the bloody and murderous Sioux; Who some time ago Took an arrow and bow and raised such a hellabellou?"

"There was a young lady of Ryde/Whose locks were considerably dyed. The hue of her hair Made everyone stare/She's plebeian she'll die bald!" they cried."

One, specially written for the young husband-hunters, is amusing and sound advice: "If it's management men you pursue/Don't hunt every beast in the zoo; Just look for the signs That say 'Tigers and Lions' It isn't how many — it's who."

"In this limerick every line has been clean/Not a word that's profane or obscene; Or spelled in four letters That might pain our betters/Or snafu — if we know what we mean."

"I wish that my room had a floor; I don't care so much for a door; But this walking around Without touching the ground/Is getting to be quite a bore."

This one, of course, is British style: "To an artist a husband named Bicker/Said: 'Turn your backside and I'll kick it; You have painted my wife In the nude to the life/Do you think for a moment that's cricket?"

"A canner, exceedingly canny/One morning remarked to his granny: 'A canner can anything that he can/But a canner can't a can, can he?"

"According to experts the oyster/In its shell, or crustacean cloister; May frequently be Either he or she/Or both if it should be its choice ter."

"From number Nine, Pen-wiper Mews/There is really abominable news; They've discovered a head in the box for the bread/But nobody seems to know whose."

"There was a young girl of old Natchez/Whose garments were always in patchez; When comment arose On the state of her clothes/She drawled 'When ah itchez ah scratchez.'"

President Woodrow Wilson's favorite limerick is also mine: "As a beauty I'm not a great star/There are others more handsome far; But my face, I don't mind it Because I'm behind it/ 'Tis the folks out front that I jar'."

Burger Was a Witch-Hunter

WASHINGTON — If the Senate Judiciary Committee, passing on the qualifications of Warren E. Burger to be Chief Justice, digs deeply enough, it will find an interesting affinity between him and President Nixon which Nixon has been trying to forget. It is the record of witch-hunting in the days when Nixon was a rootin' tootin' member of the House Un-American Activities Committee backing up Sen. Joe McCarthy and, in some cases, ahead of him.

Warren Burger at that time was his chief operator inside the Justice Department. That was where the 21-year-old friendship between the two really began.

The Senate is sure to confirm Burger. But the Judiciary Committee has an obligation to bring out the full facts regarding his career. Whether it will do so, stacked as it is with Dirksen, Dodd, Hruska and Strom Thurmond, is another matter. However, this column on April 9, 1955, reported on an incident in Burger's career which goes to the root of his old witch-hunting days. It was the famous case against Dr. John P. Peters of Yale before the Supreme Court which Burger argued because the then-Solicitor General Simon Sobeloff refused to participate in witch-hunting. Sobeloff would not even sign the Justice Department's brief.

The issue was very clearly drawn between Burger, Nixon and McCarthyism on one side, and the protection of constitutional rights on the other. Justice Abe Fortas, now forced off the court, signed the brief against Burger, and his two partners, Judge Thurman Arnold and Paul Porter, argued the case in the Supreme Court.

Dr. Peters was an eminent specialist whom the U. S. Public Health Service brought down from Yale for four to ten days each year to give advice on where money should be spent on medical research. As Chief Justice Warren later described it, "This work was not of a confidential or sensitive character and did not entail access to classified material." Furthermore, Dr. Peters was cleared regarding any disloyalty by two Loyalty Boards during the Truman administration.

However, when the Eisenhower administration came into power, it reversed the Truman board findings and found Dr. Peters disloyal. It did so on the basis of "faceless informers," many of them not under oath, whom Dr. Peters was not permitted to cross-examine or even know about.

The Eisenhower Loyalty Board's opinion was handed down April 6, 1953, approximately two months after Eisenhower and Nixon took office and at a time when both had campaigned on a platform of driving all "Communists" out of government. Attorney General Brownell was the public spearhead of that drive with an assist from Vice President Nixon on the outside and Assistant Attorney General Burger on the inside.

And in the fall of 1953 he held a famous press conference just before a special congressional election in California in order to benefit Nixon's close friend Glen Lipscomb, then running for the seat vacated by Mayor Norris Poulson in Los Angeles. But when the Los Angeles Times poll showed George L. Arnold, son of Judge Thurmond Arnold, a Democrat, well in the lead, Brownell called an unusual press conference with J. Edgar Hoover present. Hoover had never participated in a political press conference before. Together they denounced communism in the Truman administration, particularly the career of the Treasury aide Harry Dexter White, then dead and unable to defend himself. The implication was that any Democrat was tainted with communism.

Most significant aspect of the press conference was that it was leaked in advance to the Nixon forces in Los Angeles and a press release issued locally even before the Brownell-Hoover press conference was held in Washington. This was followed by a battery of 50 phone girls who called voters linking the Democratic candidate with communism.

The smear campaign worked. Nixon's friend Lipscomb was elected. Judge Arnold's son was defeated. The constitutional differences between Nixon and the Arnold, Fortas and Porter law firm came to a climax in the Dr. Peters case. The Arnold-Fortas firm had defended several other important victims of McCarthyism, including Dorothy Bailey, who was found disloyal without being permitted to face her accusers, and Dr. Owen Lattimore of Johns Hopkins.

But when the Peters case came up for argument before the Supreme Court, Solicitor General Sobeloff, the Solicitor General who was entrusted with arguing all cases before the Supreme Court, refused to do so. Joseph Alsop, columnist, reported Sept. 7, 1955: "At first Sobeloff persuaded Brownell to confess error by refusing to contest the Peters suit. Then Brownell was persuaded by the politicians (Nixon et al) who have acquired an immense vested interest in the security system's abuses. Sobeloff was informed that Brownell would not keep his promise. The Solicitor General then flatly refused to sign the government's brief against Peters. He further pleaded with Brownell not to sign the brief either, and there is some evidence that Brownell hesitated long before doing so."

This was why Burger, then Assistant Attorney General, also signed the brief and argued the case. However, he did much more by staging an unethical background press conference in an effort to influence the court through public opinion. This will be reported in a future column.

Surely You Are Joshing, Prof

WASHINGTON—"Now," said President Edwards, when the last of the other members of the Unified Science Council had disappeared from the chamber, "tell me, professor, about this extraordinary dig of yours."

"Dinosaurs," Professor Applegate began, and knew instantly that it was a clumsy beginning. Edwards would know, of course, that it concerned dinosaurs. Didn't Presidents know everything? The professor was uncertain. It was his first meeting with a President.

"You have been digging in Lower California..." President Edwards interrupted the Professor's stream of thought — "and you have unearthed some well-preserved dinosaurs, I understand."

"Well, you know I'm an archeologist..." "I know you are an archeologist, Professor Applegate, but my interest in your career is secondary at the moment to my interest in the dinosaurs. They are well preserved?"

"Amazingly, Mr. President. That is why I requested this appointment. I believe it would be quite easy for our biologists to restore them to life."

President Edwards registered surprise. "Surely you are joshing, professor," he said, registering a hint of self-satisfaction with his phrase. It was one he had acquired, along with "Deucedly cunning, Holmes!" and "Jolly good, that," from his reading of archaic literature, a hobby he had recently taken up because sleep modes bored him.

"I have never been more serious, Mr. President. It appears from my discoveries that dinosaurs had discovered a technique for preserving their bodies after death."

"Through a primitive grasp of somatic transcendence, no doubt," the president suggested. "Deucedly cunning, Holmes."

"Nothing so advanced as somatic transcendence, nor even cadescent ellipsis," Professor Applegate said. "It was a simple matter of artificially lowering environmental temperature."

"Jolly good, that!" President Edwards exclaimed. "The dinosaurs had mastered temperature control! And such stupid creatures in everything else, professor."

"Yes," Professor Applegate replied, "but perhaps we have confused their viciousness with stupidity. In any case, I have a number of specimens so well preserved that by substituting a few organs which we can easily produce in the genetic engineering lab, it will be possible to restore them to life."

President Edwards registered horror.

"I know it seems incredible, Mr. President."

"Not incredible, professor, terrifying. And I suppose you want the state to approve this — this resurrection?"

"In the interest of science..."

"You will destroy the preserved dinosaurs at once."

"But, Mr. President..."

"My decision is irrevocable, professor."

"Science, Mr. President..."

"Oh yes, it would be amusing to revive some of these relics. The kind of thing the dinosaurs themselves might have done had they been in our position. Not only amusing; we might even have something to enliven the intracomic television news one evening. But dangerous, professor. Extremely dangerous."

Psychology Of Inflation

How can we conquer a PSYCHOLOGY OF INFLATION? What policies are appropriate when the psychology already has so firm a grip in our land that mounting millions of Americans believe the soundest thing for them to do is to Buy Now, Borrow Now, Build Now, Invest Now — on the premise that any delay in buying, borrowing, building, investing will only mean they'll pay more later?

This psychology is the new, unprecedented factor in our economic pattern. This acceptance of inflation as inevitable is the addition which to date has so profoundly blunted the impact of monetary-fiscal restraints. This is the unanticipated development which to date has made a mockery of all forecasts of business slowdown.

"The U. S. has never before had to deal with this factor in consuming spending," says an expert in consumer behavior. "It's the reason all predictions for a spending slowdown have gone wrong." And the fact is that the latest consumer surveys project continued free spending — despite the cost of credit, the prospect for a continuation of the surtax, curbs on government spending.

"It's an attitude among businessmen we're recognizing and approaching with considerable uneasiness," says a Washington authority. "Bankers know we're not kidding about the credit squeeze but businessmen still aren't getting the message." And the fact is that businessmen persist in planning record spending on new plants and equipment because (1) they feel costs will be higher if they wait; (2) they're sure markets will be there for all they can produce; (3) they believe modernized plants are their only defense against surging production costs. "How do you answer that list of rationalizations?" asks the policymaker.

"My conviction in a future of rising prices is why I'm keeping my accounts almost fully invested," declares a nationally respected investment counselor. "I feel much more protected with top-rank growth stocks than with bonds or certainly cash." And the fact is that even the most conservative projections for the 1970s see our Gross National Product in a powerful upturn toward the $2 trillion mark by 1980.

What's more, right now the cost of living index is soaring at an annual pace of 7.6 per cent — in the face of all the restraints. Wages are climbing currently at a 7 per cent rate too.

No one who knows the history of prices since the 1940s is looking for anything more than a narrowing of the rate of price rise back to the 2-2½ per cent a year range over the long-term. This is what we call "comparative stability" in our economy.

What, then, can we do about the psychology?

The missing weapon in the arsenal, informed sources believe, is "Uncertainty. This is what we must reintroduce into our economy so everyone won't be sure there's only one direction."

Thus, the Federal Reserve System is clamping down hard on credit in order to force banks to reduce and reject loans. If businessmen can't get the cash to build they'll be forced to delay spending. Thus, the Administration is following tax-budget policies designed to curb the economy's growth — and the hope is that the Vietnam war's end will coincide soon and release sufficient materials, manpower and money to bring about the welcome easing of pace.

Beyond this, no one knows. Wage-price controls would attack only the symptoms of inflation and couldn't possibly work in our current environment anyway. Voluntary guidelines assume attitudes on the part of business and labor which simply do not exist in this era.

A slump which would bring the uncertainty by causing widespread joblessness also would bring such suffering and so endanger us all that only a fool would opt for this "cure."

And so all we can do is pursue our policies of restraint and hope that the spiral will gradually subside to a reasonable familiar rate of rise.

Don't Relax with Thieu, Harris Urges Nixon

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Fred R. Harris urged Sunday that President Nixon make clear to South Vietnam President Nguyen Van Thieu next week that the United States is not committed exclusively to Thieu's regime.

The Oklahoma Democrat said a South Vietnamese coalition government appears to be developing as part of the solution to the Vietnam war and said he is very worried about Nixon's meeting with Thieu next Sunday at Guam.

Harris, who is national chairman of the Democratic party, said Nixon, has made clear that all groups in South Vietnam, including the Viet Cong—if they forego violence to achieve power—should be able to participate in its government.

"My concern is that President Nixon not relax that in his talks with President Thieu," Harris said. "President Thieu has been making some other kinds of statements lately and that concerns me very much."

Sen. Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., meanwhile, said Nixon should tell Thieu the United States is ready to begin "a draw down" of its troops to turn more of the war over to the South Vietnamese.

Percy said also the great distinction of the Nixon administration is that it is not committed to support any one government. He said the South Vietnam government needs a broader base.

Harris was interviewed on ABC's "Issues and Answers." Percy on CBS' "Face the Nation."

Harris said he is concerned Thieu's visit to South Korean President Chung Hee Park and talk of the need to avoid a dishonorable settlement just before his meeting with Nixon is an attempt to put pressure on Nixon to relax his stand.

"I just hope in his private talks with President Thieu and in the communique which comes out of those talks," Harris said, "that he will make clear that he is staying with what amounts, in my judgment, to a personal commitment, to a national commitment on his part to the people of South Vietnam, to choose their own government."

In addition to beginning troop withdrawals, Percy said he believes the Nixon administration should reappraise battlefield tactics, such as the costly takeover of Ap Bia Mountain, of keeping up military pressure.

"I'd like to see us try lessening the violence to see if it works," Percy said. "It's not just a military question. It's a question of what best brings about a solution to the war."

Students Build Fancy Stand For Newsie

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Ed (Ace) Huddy, who's been selling newspapers at the same corner for over 30 years, is now working out what may be the fanciest one-man corner newsstand in the nation.

It's eight feet high by six feet square, has four round windows in the roof, a picture window in the back and several compartments for papers. Across the top, emblazoned in four inch letters, is a sign: "Ace's News-paper Stand."

"The only thing I don't have is a shower to cool me off," said Ace as he stood in the 85 degree temperature Saturday and peddled papers.

The stand was designed and built by students at Carnegie Mellon University, who are doing a project for their architectural design class.

Ace said a student at the school, just blocks from the stand in the Oakland section, told him the students wanted to build a new stand.

"I laughed it off, like he was just talking," said Ace. "All I told him was my favorite colors—blue and yellow."

"Then, lo and behold, the kid comes around and starts telling me all he's going to do," said Ace.

The students delivered the stand this week. And, as Ace sold papers, he was deluged with compliments about his "palace."

"I've been a newsie more than 30 years around this corner," he said, "and this is the best stand I've ever had."

24 Young Ladies Seek To Represent Pennsylvania

HERSHEY, Pa. (AP) — The Miss Pennsylvania title goes on the line here next week when 24 young ladies seek to represent the state in the Miss America pageant early in September.

Most of the competition will be crowded into the final two nights of the week, but the girls will be on hand for registration as early as Tuesday.

The winner, to be crowned June 14 by Debbie Bryant of Overland Park, Kan., the 1966 Miss America, will succeed Susan Robinson of Pittsburgh. Miss Bryant will be the Miss Pennsylvania mistress of ceremonies.

At stake in addition to the trip to Atlantic City, N.J., for the Miss America pageant, will be some $4,000 in scholarships and other prizes.

The contestants will represent all parts of the state. Only one, the Philadelphia entry, is not from Pennsylvania.

John B. Zerbe, executive director of the sponsoring Pennsylvania Scholarship Pageant, said the winner will receive a $1,000 sponsor's scholarship, a four-year gubernatorial scholarship, a pair of $250 fashion awards and the use of a new automobile for the duration of her reign.

In addition, the first runner-up receives a $500 scholarship; the second runner-up, $350; third runner-up, $300 and fourth runner-up, $250.

Miss Congeniality, traditionally selected by the contestants themselves, will receive a $200 award as will the non-winner semifinalists. Other awards include $150 each to the most talented and second most talented non-finalists and $150 to the preliminary swim suit winner.

Three days of rehearsal and judging interviews begin one week from Tuesday. Contestants will compete in pageant preliminaries on the stage of the Hershey Community Theatre Friday, June 13.

Competition includes swimming, evening gown and talent with the latter counting 50 per cent of the total. Ten semifinalists will be chosen and announced Saturday night. The field then will be reduced to five with the winner to be crowned late Saturday night.

The contestants include: Miss Allegheny County: Karen Lee Lewandowski, 18, Pittsburgh; Miss Armstrong County: Kean Tessler, 18, Kittanning; Miss Bucks County: Jennifer Lizbeth Seckler, 20, Newtown; Miss California State College: Kathleen Hotarie, 21, Brownsville; Miss Central Pennsylvania: Judith Dara Lvtz, 18, Bradford; Miss Centre County: Susan C. Pittsburgh Pawnshop Continues to Thrive

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Hard times have come to hockshops across the country, but Pittsburgh's celebrated pawnshop on the corner continues to thrive. "If a man needs a small amount of money quick, how else can he get it?" asks Jack Dutch, owner of the Security Loan Co. "It's too much trouble to go to a loan company and fill out a lot of forms for $10 or $15."

Dutch says the same steady stream of the momentarily down-trodden has been coming in the store, immortalized in the song "There's a Pawnshop on the Corner in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania," since his father bought it in 1921.

But the Security Loan Co. hasn't been left untouched by the same economic pressures that have forced many pawnbrokers to yank down their three overhanging gold balls for good.

For one, it's no longer on a corner. Two years ago Dutch packed up an assortment of portable radios, rifles, guitars, typewriters, binoculars and cameras and moved two blocks down to the middle of Federal Street on the city's Northside.

The old shop still stands where it did when crooner Guy Mitchell made it popular during the early 1950s: on the corner of an alley across from a cluster of seamy bars and a tawdry burlesque house. It's now a bargain store.

Dutch, 54, says the old store only used to handle watches and jewelry a decade ago. But he says it became too small for the bulky items people pawn nowadays. "I never carried drums before," he says.

A state official says the drop in the number of Pennsylvania's pawnshops, from 101 in 1950 to 60 last year, is following a national trend. Mostly, he says, the fusty little shops are becoming obsolete as American society reaches new heights of superabundance.

"One of the reasons for the decline of the pawnshop," he says, "is that people no longer have to pledge their personal effects to have access to credit." He says the interest rate in Pennsylvania, 3 per cent on $150, is about the same as on a small loan.

"Another reason," he continues, "is the location. Many are in ghettos and are susceptible to riots. Most of the pawnbrokers are older people. They get scared and get out of the business. And many have sons who don't want to take over the store."

He also says years ago pawnshops made much of their profits on the sale of clothing. But he says they stopped accepting clothing when cheap, synthetic fabrics became available on the regular market. "There's no claim value, so pawnshops won't take clothing anymore," he says.

Scott Feels Nation Closer To Peace

READING, Pa. (AP) — Sen. Hugh Scott, nearly one month to the day after urging a substantial withdrawal of American troops from Vietnam, said Sunday he's confident President Nixon is leading the nation closer to peace.

"I believe he is making the right decisions and leading us closer to the goal of lasting peace," said the Pennsylvania, No. 2 GOP leader in the Senate.

Scott said in a speech prepared for commencement ceremonies at Albright College that he based his assessment on the President's May 14 address presenting an eight-point peace program for Vietnam.

"For many, including some of us in the Senate, it took a second reading to get the speech's full significance," said Scott. "But I predict that history will record it as a turning point in the diplomatic effort to find the way that leads to peace."

He noted the President's speech declared U.S. willingness to join in a mutual withdrawal.

"This is the most important step toward peace yet taken by the administration," said Scott. "The past American position stipulated that our troops would withdraw only if the North Vietnamese got out first."

In his commencement address, Scott also praised Nixon for indicating that the United States would take part in political negotiations.

"It was a bold gesture and there is good reason to believe the other side will pick up the offer," said the senator.

Scott said the President's proposals "are the tangible results of its new initiatives for peace in Vietnam. They are only first steps but they are bigger than most of us could foresee a few months ago."

"I urge trust in the decisions of the President," he added.

House Democrats Pick Up Extra Vote This Session

HARRISBURG (AP) — A new member will take his seat in the House when the General Assembly returns this week to act on pending bills and resume consideration of Pennsylvania's budgetary problems.

The new member is John P. Murtha, D - Cambria, elected May 20 to fill a vacancy created by the death of Rep. Edward W. McNally, another Democrat, who died last November.

Murtha will become the second Cambria countian to be sworn in as a legislator in as many weeks. Sen. W. Louis Coppersmith, a Democrat, took his oath last Monday.

Coppersmith won a narrow election victory in November over incumbent Republican Richard J. Green Jr. — so narrow that the result was in doubt until recently. Green lost a court challenge.

When Murtha takes his seat, Democrats will control the House by a 106-96 margin. Republicans hold sway in the Senate by a 27-23 count. There remains one vacancy in the House.

The House is scheduled to meet Monday, but the Senate does not plan to return from its Memorial Day Holiday until Tuesday. Both chambers have several significant bills under consideration.

The Senate was expected to act on a $245,000 deficiency appropriation measure to replenish the fund out of which the state's 265 common pleas judges are paid.

The judges have had their salaries withheld pending passage of the bill, and one jurist in Schuylkill County served notice he doesn't intend to work until he gets paid.

Perhaps complicating passage of the judge's pay bill is the fact that the Senate Rules Committee tacked on an amendment proposing an additional $90,000 for legislative staff expenditures.

Regardless of the floor action, the more important decisions, if any, are likely to be made behind closed doors as the leaders try to resolve partisan differences over Gov. Shafer's $2.52 billion budget.

With the start of the new fiscal year a month away, the lawmakers are faced with either cutting the Shafer budget or raising the $500 million in revenue needed to finance it.

David O. Maxwell, for 2½ years state insurance commissioner, steps into a new job as the governor's budget secretary, effective Monday. Maxwell succeeds Arthur F. Sampson.

War Cloud, foaled in England, and Northern Dancer, a product of Canada, are the only Preakness winners to be foaled outside the United States. War Cloud won a division of the race in 1918 and Northern Dancer scored in 1964.

The governor will be back Tuesday from a trade mission tour of South America to lend his presence, if required, to the budget negotiations.

The negotiations have been carried out under a cloak of secrecy by the legislative leadership and representatives of the governor's office.

Don't Be a Bambi Napper

During the next few weeks female deer will be giving birth to their fawns and the woodland walker is apt to come across a newborn fawn almost anywhere. One of the main problems confronting game protectors during this period is the number of these fawns that are removed from their woodland homes by persons who think the fawn has been abandoned by its mother, or those with the more ulterior motive of acquiring a pet deer.

Very few fawns are ever orphans. In almost every case the mother is close by and will return to the fawn as soon as danger passes. Because the fawn's coloration is so highly protective, the mother deer is confident that nothing will harm her newborn child until she returns.

Those who deer-nap the newborn fawn as a means of acquiring a pet are headed for disappointment. For the fawn must be reported to the Game Commission and after years of dealing with such persons the Commission has adopted a get tough policy that precludes the possibility that any individual can keep the fawn they have deer-napped.

Further than this, the fawn's entire life has been altered from its natural course. A fawn reared by humans can never go it alone in the forest, so it is forced to live its entire life in unnatural surroundings.

Local game protectors are appealing to all persons to leave fawns where they find them. If there is reason to believe the fawn is actually an orphan, report it and its location to any game protector and the matter will be checked out immediately.

Girl Scout Troop No. 21 ended their busy year with a Mother and Daughter Banquet in Fellowship Hall of the Methodist United Church on May 26. The girls are working on their cooking badges and prepared and served the meal themselves; their busy year consisted of a Halloween party in October, collecting canned goods and other items through November and December for a Christmas basket for a needy family, and selling calendars; in February they had a Valentine party.

In March every girl went out and sold Girl Scout cookies. They sold 65 cases or 780 boxes; in April they delivered the cookies. They also collected round containers to make a Mother's Day gift in May. They received their sewing badges which they have been working on since March, planted flowers and placed an ornamental fence around the Post Office lawn, made waste baskets for their mothers and marched in the Clarendon Memorial parade — Carla Brendlinger recited "In Flander's Field".

The girls are now planning a picnic at Kinzua Dam on June

9 and plan to attend Day Camp at Birdsall Edey the week of July 7-11. Regular meetings will start again in September. Mrs. Miles Stitzinger, leader of the group, would like to thank the Rev. R. C. Dowling and members of the church for the use of the church basement, and Mrs. Ruth Smith for helping with sewing badges. Thanks also go to Mrs. Thomas Dorrien for being cookie chairman, Mrs. Vonnie Dunham for pictures and helping with the Mothers and Daughters Banquet, and any one else who assisted in any way. Members of the troop are

REFLECTIONS

By Betty Rice

One of the area's most eligible bachelors passes on a recipe created by his mother. Although the latter called it SEAFOOD CASSEROLE, he has named it CASSEROLE a la KNABB: Whole ingredients are 1 can of lobster; 1 cup of shrimp; 2 boxes of Wakefield frozen crab; 1 small can of mushrooms--sliced. And in the Sauce -- 1/3 cup of butter melted with 1 tsp. chopped onion and 1 tbl. green pepper. Add: 1/2 tsp. celery salt; 1/2 tsp. mustard; 1/4 tsp. thyme; 1 1/2 tsp. Accent; 1 scant tsp. salt; Freshly ground pepper; 2/3 cup flour; 3 cups of liquid using liquor from mushrooms and lobster with milk. Blend: Cook sauce until thick. Add unthawed crab -- cover and cook until thawed; Add 1/4 cup of sour cream and 1 tbsp. grated parmesan cheese; Add 2 egg yolks (add small amount of hot water to yolks and then stir yolks into total mixture); Add lobster, shrimp and mushrooms -- stir until well blended. Top with breadcrumbs prepared as follows: Add 1 cup of crumbs to 2 tbs. of melted butter; Flavor with 1 tsp. chopped peppers and onion; 1 tsp. chopped parsley; 1 tbl. grated parmesan cheese. Baking: Bake in casserole placed in pan of water (1 oz. of sherry may be added just before placing dish in casserole for baking. Bake in 350 degree oven for 45 minutes. If casserole is stored in refrigerator prior to baking, bring to room temperature before placing in oven.

"From Our Kitchens" comes a recipe by Mrs. John Wolfe for Macaroni and Corned Beef Casserole: 8 Oz. macaroni, cooked; 1/4 lb. processed cheese, cubed; 1 can cream of chicken soup; 1/2 cup onion chopped fine; 1-12 oz. can corned beef, cut up fine or put through food chopper; 1 cup milk. Mix macaroni, corned beef, cheese, soup, milk and onion and put in greased casserole. Bake 1 hour at 350 degrees.

And also From Our Kitchens -- LEMON DAINTY: 3 tbsp. butter; 1/2 tsp. salt; 3/4 cup sugar; 3 egg yolks; 1 cup milk; Juice and grated rind of 1 lemon; 3 egg whites stiffly beaten. Combine butter, salt, sugar and flour. Add yolks, milk, lemon juice and rind. Beat until smooth; Fold in beaten whites. Pour into greased baking dishes; set in pan of hot water and bake about 45 minutes at 350. Turn out and top with whipped cream. Serves 6.

Ann Landers

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm engaged to marry a great gal, age 22, sweet, peppy, smart, and she has plenty going for her. Rosemary is beautiful and built. Take my word for it, Ann, she doesn't have to go to extremes to get people to notice her. And this is what I'm writing about.

Rosemary bought one of those up-to-the-minute dresses with the material cut out here and there -- about eight peepholes. (I don't know how else to describe it.) She wears a flesh-colored body stocking underneath her dress so of course it looks like you are seeing her bare skin.

Whenever Rosemary wears that dress everyone does a double take. I feel like I'm with a naked dame. It's very embarrassing.

I've told her my feelings about that crazy dress and she said I was no judge of style and that I had no business trying to dictate to her what she ought to wear. Do I have the right to tell my fiancée I will not take her out in that dress again? -- DOUBTING THOMAS

DEAR TOM: You do and you should and I hope you will.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Our son inherited a valuable library from his grandfather who was a United States senator. The library was not large -- approximately 250 books, but it contained many fine volumes with personal inscriptions to the Senator from distinguished authors.

Over the last six years we have lost nearly half of these irreplaceable books because acquaintances borrowed them and "forgot" to bring them back.

Last week a friend who attended a funeral in another town saw one of my son's books in the home of the deceased. It was lying on the table, face down with the spine broken. We did not know the person in whose home the book had been seen. I assume a mutual friend had passed it on. This, in my opinion, is thoughtless and inconsiderate. Do you know of a solution to the problem?--GREENSBORO, N.C.

DEAR GREEN: There is no solution once it becomes a problem. I suggest prevention rather than a cure. Make it a rule never--and I mean never--to allow a book out of your home unless you are prepared to part with it forever. I know from experience that some trustworthy and cultured people can also be bookkeepers.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I was interested in the letter from Arlene, the gal who complained about a fresh punk who rode elevators a lot and got his jollies snapping girdles. He especially enjoyed zeroing in on young gals whose arms were loaded with packages and lab material.

Why didn't you suggest panty hose, Ann? The guy will go out of his head from frustration.--SCHENECTADY

DEAR SCHEN: Panty hose is no substitute for a girdle. And any girl who thinks otherwise should avail herself of a three-way rear-view mirror.

Hints From Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:

When my two daughters were going to be married, I remembered what you said about making a bride's scrapbook, so we saved all the lovely paper from the shower and wedding gifts.

Then I ironed it, folded it in half lengthwise and cut them all to uniform size. But when I punched the holes, I put them down the open edge of the paper, leaving the folded edge for the right-hand side of the page. This way, all the pages were double, and pretty on both sides.

Then we pasted all the gift cards on the pages, but not too close together -- so that the lovely paper could be seen and admired. (We had written what the gift was on each card.)

I covered cardboard with some of the paper for the cover and tied it all together with a piece of gift ribbon. The books are lovely and my daughters are so proud of them.

I have often thought what a wonderful idea it would be to start a birthday book for each child. Think how it could grow with the child and the memories it would bring back!

Pat

DEAR HELOISE:

When you are preparing snap beans for freezing or canning, first cut off the ends. Then take several beans at a time, even them up as if you were "drawing straws," and cut them all at once into one-inch pieces.

This is much faster than snapping hundreds of beans one at a time.

An Avid Reader

DEAR HELOISE:

I've discovered another use for plastic bleach bottles.

If you have a cabin at the lake, and there are a lot of stumps in the water, use the bottles to mark the stumps. Just screw the bottle lid on tightly and tie a fishing line to the handle. Then, drive a nail into the stump you wish to mark, tying the other end of the line to it.

The plastic bottles will float and are easily seen by swimmers, water skiers and fishermen—even at night.

Sunny

LETTER OF THOUGHT

DEAR HELOISE:

If the grass looks greener on the other side of the fence, try fertilizing your own!

Nancy Lang

DEAR HELOISE:

You know how hard it is to get the sand off your skin after a day at the beach? Well, I have the answer! Sprinkle baby powder on your skin, then dust the powder and the sand off with a towel. It works like magic -- especially on your feet where sand just seems glued to your toes.

There's no more redness or soreness from rubbing, because the powder is soothing.

Mrs. R. Read

DEAR HELOISE:

I just thought of a good idea for the cover of my plastic cake holder.

With backyard picnics here now, it is just the thing to put on the picnic table to protect your favorite dish from flies.

JEWELRY STAINS

Q. My skin turns dark beneath any jewelry I wear. Could this be due to something I eat?

A. No, this type of reaction is unrelated to diet. Most good jewelry consists of gold, silver or platinum alloyed or mixed with zinc, copper and nickel. Certain chemicals in the skin may react with the metals to form dark compounds which discolor the surface of the skin. The reaction is similar to the tarnishing of silver. The discoloration is easily removed with soap and water and can be prevented by coating jewelry with clear lacquer to prevent direct contact of the metal with the skin.

HEARTBURN

Q. What is the cause of "heartburn"?

A. Heartburn is due to reflux or backward flow of stomach contents into the esophagus, the tube leading from the mouth to the stomach. Rich foods, and especially fatty foods, tend to produce occasional attacks of heartburn, because of delay in stomach emptying. This gives rise to belching, with regurgitation or backflow of stomach acid into the esophagus.

United In Marriage

Miss Dianne Lou Nollinger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earle A. Nollinger, 42 Hemlock st., Warren, Pa., and Mr. Michael John Doon, son of Mr. and Mrs. James O. Doon, 1391 Cranwood Drive, Columbus, Ohio, were united in marriage at 12 noon, May 31, 1969 at Holy Redeemer Church of Warren in the presence of about 250 guests.

The Rev. Frank McCullough celebrated the nuptial mass and performed the double ring ceremony before an altar decorated with two vases of assorted flowers, some of them dipped to match the colors of the maid of honor's and bridesmaids' dresses. The organist was Miss Marie Kretzer.

The bride, escorted by her father, wore a wedding gown of white nylon organza over bridal taffeta. The slim floor length gown in Directoire silhouette was fashioned with an empire bodice of Chantille lace etched with ribbons to form the scalloped bateau neckline and long tapered sleeves. Sprays of the iridescent lace were repeated near the hem of the skirt on the sheer tubular chapel length train secured to the gown with lace medallions.

Her bouffant veil of English pure silk illusion was caught to a cluster of organza and lace petals outlined with seed pearls and sprinkled with iridescents and crystals. She carried a cascade bouquet of white roses accented with pink chiffon sweetheart roses and ivy.

Miss Sandra Schmaeder, a friend of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a gown of light turquoise blue with a sheer rayon georgette skirt misted over acetate taffeta lining with flowing wattleback panel. The rich cotton lace bodice was accented with satin as were the three-quarter length sleeves.

Bridesmaids were Mrs. Donna Ellison, a friend of the bride, and the bride's cousin, Mrs. Nancy Burton. They were dressed identically to the honor attendant only in light shell pink. Their headpieces were nylon net leaves trimmed with Swiss beaded rosettes and lilies of the valley with nylon net veil. They carried cascade bouquets of light turquoise blue, light shell pink and white carnations and daisies.

Miss Joyce Weaver, a friend of the bride, was junior bridesmaid, and was attired in a delicate white cotton lace coat with elbow sleeves. White dots sprinkle a candy pink A-liner sharp inverted front pleat with lace inserts falling softly beneath a self bow. She carried a smaller bouquet identical to those of the other attendants.

William Rahe, a friend of the bridegroom, served as best man and groomsmen were Gene Doon, the bridegroom's brother and Francis Rahe, a friend of the bridegroom, both from Columbus, Ohio. Dudley Nollinger, brother of the bride, was junior groom's man.

The bride's mother wore an acetate-rayon crepe dress of sky blue with white lace coat, white accessories with a corsage of white roses and carnations clipped in light blue. The bridegroom's mother chose a pink peau d'oele with lace bodice and jacket to match, white accessories and corsage of white roses and carnations tipped in pink lace.

The bride's grandmother, Mrs. IvaBelle Richael was favored with a white carnation corsage.

The wedding reception was held at Glade Township Fire Hall where decorations featured a four-tier wedding cake topped with three wedding bells and pink and white flowers. Music for the reception was provided by Joe Ukalono.

The bride's travel costume was a yellow and tan flowered sleeveless dress and jacket to match with bone accessories and wrist corsage of yellow sweetheart roses.

The couple will make their home in Columbus.

The bride is a graduate of Warren Area High School and Jamestown Business College. She was employed at Pennsylvania Gas Company. The bridegroom graduated from Watterson High School and is a bricklayer for Seplich Construction Co. of Columbus.

Pre-nuptial affairs were given by Mrs. Carol Doon, Mrs. IvaBelle Richael and Mrs. Nancy Burton. The rehearsal luncheon was given by Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Stover.

Out of town guests came from Columbus, Cleveland and Soudsville, Ohio; Albany, Ga., York, Pittsburgh, Bethel Park, Kane, Erie, Fairview, Cambridge, Clarendon, New Castle, Youngsville, Russell and Sheffield, Pa.; Hyattsville and Greenbelt, Md.; Minnesota, Akron, Cuyahoga Falls, Stowe, Grovesport, Logan, Ohio and Hampton, Va.

SLIGHT SWITCH

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — Willard Robins, a Navy veteran of World War II and the Korean war, took his son, Steven Robins, 17, downtown to enlist in the Navy.

In the process of passing tests and making other arrangements, the youth decided he would rather be a civilian.

His father decided the Navy still looks good.

So Willard Robins, 44, re-enlisted. He received a chief petty officer grade and after boot camp will join a mobile construction battalion.

Jehovah's Witnesses Delegates Attend International Assembly

"Peace on earth" has come," stated Theodore Smith, presiding minister of the Warren congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses. He said this in announcing that delegates from the congregation will be attending the "Peace on Earth" International Assembly of Jehovah's Witnesses scheduled to be held July 6-13 in Buffalo, New York.

"In spite of the protests, campus rebellions, brush-fire wars and incidents which threaten war that are continually in the news, peace is already an established reality in the lives of Jehovah's Witnesses and will become even more solidly based in the near future," Mr. Smith said. "Witnesses will be converging on seven cities in the United States, as well as Europe, Canada and the Far East, to attend one of the 'Peace On Earth' International Assemblies of Jehovah's Witnesses."

"We are preparing for the largest total attendance at any series of our assemblies ever," he continued. "Families from the Warren Congregation are making plans to go into Buffalo to demonstrate, not by street march, but by living, working, and worshipping together for eight days, that there do not have to be 'confrontations' because people have different political, ethnic or social backgrounds."

"Because Jehovah's Witnesses make practical application of the words of the 'Prince of Peace' in their daily lives," he continued, "the result is a strongly knit group of peaceful people. Genuine love for God, for neighbor, and for family rules out the frantic competitions and jealousies so prevalent in human society in general."

"Lectures, discussion groups and costumed dramas of life in Bible times will be features of the program at each convention and will explain more about the way God's Kingdom is going to bring total peace in every way to the earth," Smith concluded.

WHO'S CUT OUT FOR CUTOUTS?

By Mary Sue Miller

(First in a series of five special columns: "How To Trim For The Swim.")

No fashion is more demanding than a bathing suit. New suits are merciless—one piece jobs cut out to the maximum, fore, aft, port and starboard.

Best begin at once on any needed figure improvements, lest those holes in swim clothes circle the heavy spots. If you really work at it, you can trim and groom your figure in just a few weeks. The first step, as you doubtless surmise, is weight reduction. And no groans, please! It's easy when you follow this basic pattern of delicious eating:

One egg—75 calories; 1 pt. skim milk or equivalent in other dairy products—160 cal.; 2 slices whole diet grain bread, or equivalent in other baked goods and cereal—120 cal.; 1 tbsp. butter or other oils—100 cal.; choice of meat, fish or fowl (baked or broiled), not to exceed 300 cal.; 2 or 3 servings non-starchy vegetables, raw or cooked—85 cal.; 1 serving starchy vegetable (potato, rice, corn)—100 cal.; 1 fruit or vegetable juice, 1 portion raw fruit—150 cal.; 1 plain dessert (ice milk, cup cake, jello), not to exceed 100 cal. Daily total, 1200 calories.

Special for teen girls: To above foods add 2 slices bread, 2 pats butter; 1 pt. milk (1 qt. in all, preferably whole milk); 1 serving meat. Total, not less than 2200 calories.

Besides the loss of two pounds weekly, the plus here is a classic balance of food that sates hunger, ups energy, and polishes the skin. You have all to gain from the plan but weight. Start now, before it's too late.

Senators Get Power

WASHINGTON (AP)—Home runs by Frank Howard, Ken McMullen and Brant Aleya powered the Washington Senators to a 9-2 victory over the Chicago White Sox Sunday.

Howard hit his 16th homer in the first inning, McMullen smacked his fourth in the fourth and Aleya's sixth, a two-run blow, came in the fifth.

But the Senators did the most damage in a five-run second on walks to Mike Epstein and McMullen, a two-run double by Paul Casanova, a run-scoring single by Ed Brinkman, a walk to Hank Allen and a two-run double by Howard.

Winning pitcher Barry Moore, 4-1 allowed six hits, but five were doubles and two were turned into runs by Chicago.

Pilots Dump Detroit

SEATTLE (AP)—Tommy Harper, who hit one of Seattle's four homers earlier, singled in the tie-breaking run in the eighth inning and the Pilots ended the Detroit Tigers' four-game winning streak, 8-7, Sunday.

Rich Rollins opened the eighth with a single off reliever Pat Dobson and pinch-runner Dick Simpson came around on a sacrifice and Harper's two-out hit to center. The Pilots had taken a 4-1 lead on Don Mincher's two-run homer in the first and Harper's shot with a man on in the second.

Oakland Thwacks Tribe
OAKLAND (AP)—The Oakland Athletics scored seven runs in the fourth inning and went on to rout the Cleveland Indians 11-1 Sunday as all of the A's starters got one hit and scored at least one run.

Trailing 1-0, the A's knocked out Dick Ellsworth with five consecutive singles for two runs to open the fourth, the last hit a run-scoring single by winner Chuck Dobson, 5-4.

Reliever Jack Hamilton wild pitched another run in and Tom Reynolds singled in two more before another wild pitch scored a run. The last run scored on a wild throw after Danny Cater's second hit in the inning.

Tony C. 4-for-4

BOSTON (AP)—Tony Conigliaro drilled four straight hits, including his 10th homer, and Rico Petrocelli belted his 15th homer Sunday, powering the Boston Red Sox to a 5-2 victory over the Minnesota Twins.

Conigliaro, staging a spectacular comeback after sitting out the 1968 season with a serious eye injury, doubled his first two times up, hoisted a towering shot over the screen atop the left field wall in the fifth and then lined a single off the wall, hiking his average 17 points to .288. He drove in two runs.

Petrocelli, who drove in the first run with a bases-loaded fielder's choice in the third, added a pair of insurance tallies with a blast high off the light tower in the seventh.

Ray Culp, with relief help from Sparky Lyle, picked up his ninth victory, tops in the American League, in 11 decisions.

Yanks Stage Rally

KANSAS CITY (AP)—The New York Yankees came from four runs down and then drilled four doubles for three seventh-inning runs and an 8-5 victory over the Kansas City Royals Sunday.

Jimmie Hall ignited the winning rally by lashing a double into the right field corner and Roy White followed with a double into the left field corner, breaking a 5-5 tie.

That burst chased pitcher Dave Wickensham, but the Yanks continued the bombardment against Bill Butler as John Ellis and Jim Lytle also stroked doubles for two more runs.

Orioles Win In 11

ANAHEIM (AP)—Paul Blair drilled a leadoff homer in the 11th inning Sunday, giving the Baltimore Orioles a 4-3 comeback victory over the California Angels.

Blair hit reliever Bob Priddy's first pitch in the 11th into the left field seats, giving right-hander Jim Palmer, the last of six Baltimore hurlers, his sixth victory in eight decisions.

Boog Powell tied the game in the ninth with a one-out homer, Dave Leonhard, Dick Hall, Eddie Watt, Pete Richert and Palmer limited the Angels to two hits over the last nine innings after starter Dave McNally fell behind 3-0.

McNally, 7-0, was tagged for a triple by Sandy Alomar, a walk, a sacrifice fly by Jim Fregosi and Rick Reichardt's two-run homer in the first.

HAPPY WINNERS

It was a close contest right down to the wire at the Forest Rifle & Pistol Club's fishing contest held at the Tionesta Rec. Area last Saturday. Charles McWilliams, Jr., 12, of Tionesta, brought in this 12 3/4" sucker just before the deadline to beat out Danny Tombs, 4, also of Tionesta. Danny entered a 7" rock bass early in the contest, but had to be satisfied with second place. The first place prize of a rod and reel was donated by Haller's, with the fishing knife being donated by the Forest County Sports Center. (Photo by Clever)

HYLE RUSSELL MEMORIAL

Lyle Brown Captures Feature In Final Lap

For six laps—from the 43rd to the 49th—it looked like a repeat victory for Squirt Johns in Saturday's 50-lap Hyle Russell Memorial race at State Line Speedway.

But lady luck and some smooth driving cleared the way for Lyle Brown in the next-to-last lap as Johns' 1969 Camaro fell victim to mechanical troubles. Brown, who was slow starting last year in the sportsmen division before roaring to a second-place finish, held his Cougar straight on the money for a lap to collect the checkered flag and first-place money.

For Fred Knapp, third in the new car standings last year, it was even more frustrating as Johns had to dog the Asheville drive for 43 laps, then Squirt took command, and when he faltered Brown was right there to pick up the pace, giving Knapp a second-place finish. Jim Morgan horsed his '69 Chevelle to third place before an overflow crowd.

Jim Sloan, who finished seventh in last year's Sportsmen standings, showed he's to be

Pittsburgh Explodes

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Rookie Richie Hebner and Al Oliver each drove in three runs, and the Pittsburgh Pirates exploded for seven runs in the sixth inning Sunday on the way to a 14-7 romp over Houston.

The Pirates, leading 4-3 after 5 1/2 innings, broke the game open in the bottom of the sixth on only three hits.

Five walks and two errors contributed to the seven-run burst, which was keyed by Roberto Clemente's two-run and a two-run single by Oliver.

In the seventh, Oliver doubled in another run and Manny Sanguillen and Ron Davis knocked in one apiece with singles.

Hebner snapped a 2-2 tie with a two-run double in the second inning and drew a bases-loaded walk in the big sixth.

Houston's Jim Wynn cracked his 14th homer with one on in the seventh.

In the four-game series with the Astros, the Pirates banged out 52 hits and scored 32 runs.

Vic Homers In NL

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Vic Davalillo's three-run homer in his first time at bat in the National League climaxed the St. Louis Cardinals' biggest spurge of the season as they shattered Cincinnati's winning streak at nine games Sunday by drubbing the Reds 11-3.

Lou Brock socked his fourth homer for the Cardinals and right-hander Nelson Briles coasted to his third victory against four losses.

Expos Lose 16th

MONTREAL (AP)—Nate Colbert helped extend Montreal's losing streak to 16 games Sunday by pounding his ninth and 10th homers as the San Diego Padres downed the skidding Expos 5-2.

Colbert's leadoff homers in the second and sixth innings off Jerry Robertson sent veteran left-hander Johnny Rodres on the way to his fifth victory in eight decisions.

Padres checked the Expos on five hits, including a homer by Coco Laboy, before giving way to Tommie Sisk in the eighth. Sisk was tagged for another solo homer by Donn Clendenon.

LA Hitters Hot

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Andy Kosco, Bill Sudakis, Tom Haller and pitcher Don Sutton each drove in two runs Sunday as the Los Angeles Dodgers pounded the Philadelphia Phillies 12-4 behind a 15-hit attack.

The Dodgers scored seven runs in the second inning on seven hits and a damaging error by Phillies' first baseman Rich Allen, which made six of the runs unearned.

Sudakis singled to start the carnage against Phillies' starter Rick Wise. Then, Allen threw wild on a perfect doubleplay ball to set up the inning.

Ted Sizemore singled home one run and Sutton singled in two before Wise retired Willie Crawford, Willie Davis drove in a run, Wes Parker singled and Kosco doubled home two more, Kosco scored on Haller's single.

Mets Win—Typically

NEW YORK (AP)—Joe Gibbon walked four men in the ninth inning, including Ron Swoboda with the bases loaded, and the New York Mets edged the San Francisco Giants 5-4 Sunday.

Bud Harrelson opened the inning with the first pass, moved to second on Tommie Agee's sacrifice bunt and took third as Wayne Garrett grounded out. Gibbon then walked Cleon Jones intentionally, Amos Otis and Swoboda, forcing in the winning run for the Mets fourth straight victory and a series sweep over the Giants.

The Giants tied the score with a two-out rally in the sixth and walk and single by Bobby Bonds and Jim Davenport.

Cubbies Bop Braves

CHICAGO (AP)—Randy Hundley's three-run homer capped a six-run uprising in the third inning and sent the Chicago Cubs rolling past the Atlanta Braves 13-4 Sunday for a sweep of their three-game series.

The defeat was the fourth straight for the West Division leaders of the National League while the East Division leaders boosted their winning streak to four straight.

Hundley's homer was his eighth, one more than he hit all last season. Billy Williams and Jim Hickman also homered for the Cubs while the Braves Bob Tillman and Hank Aaron crashed two-run homers off starter Ken Holtzman, who failed to go five innings.

PURSUING THAT PORKER

This little piggy said, "The heck with the market, I'm headin' for the tall timber" when he found out these kids were after his well-greased hide. Over 30 youngsters, from six to 15, enjoyed games of all kinds, including the greased-pig race, at the Tionesta Recreation

Area last Saturday. The old-fashioned picnic was sponsored by the Forest Rifle & Pistol Club, and prizes and pop were furnished by the club and local merchants. The young pig had some real tall curling stories to tell after his day in the big town of Tionesta. (Photo by Clever)

Pa's First Flat Racing Card Staged At Liberty Bell Park

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Officials at Continental Racing Association expressed satisfaction with the first day of thoroughbred pari-mutuel racing in the history of Pennsylvania.

"Everything went beautiful," said Phillip Baker, general manager of Continental following Saturday's gala opening at Liberty Bell Park in Northeast Philadelphia.

"I think it was the smoothest opening I've seen in a long time," said Baker, who left a job as vice president of Atlantic City (N.J.) race course to help get Pennsylvania racing off the ground.

Baker's predictions on the crowd and handle for the initial nine race program were fairly accurate. He had predicted a crowd of between 12,000 and 15,000 and a handle of $1 million.

Actually, 15,396 turned out and bet $1,160,154. It was a conservative beginning, nothing like the 25,000 or better crowd and $2 million and up handle predicted by some people.

Continental's results at the gate and windows was comparable with the first day at Delaware Park, the 32-year-old track some 60 miles away. Delaware had 15,158 and a handle of $1, 275,011.

The state of Pennsylvania finally was a winner at the thoroughbred track. After years of watching race track dollars cross its borders into neighboring New York, New Jersey, Maryland and Delaware, the Commonwealth dipped its hands into the bonanza. Its five per cent of the first day's take amounted to $58,007. And there are 99 days of racing to go this year. The city of Philadelphia school system's two per cent amounted to $23,203.

Mile Highlights Kennedy Games

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP)—The first Kennedy Games Invitational track meet suffered from the absence of some scheduled contestants, but any meet that produces four sub-four-minute miles can't be all bad.

Some 15,500 fans turned up at the University of California's Edwards Stadium Saturday, lured by the promise of seeing John Carlos in the sprints, Bob Seagren in the pole vault and Jim Ryun in the mile. None of them showed up.

Carlos' father died suddenly Saturday night, and the lanky sprinter, flirting with a world record in the 100-yard dash, flew to New York.

Seagren had been troubled by a pulled stomach muscle and Ryun scratched from the mile moments before the race with a swollen knee.

Still, Chuck LaBenz ran in 3:58.4 and pulled three other runners at less than four minutes with him. Sam Blair was also timed at 3:58.4, Bob Day was in at 3:58.6 and John Lawson was clocked at 3:59.5.

Mel Gray of Missouri won the 100 in 9.4 and Oliver Ford of Southern University captured the 220 in 20.6.

Other winners were Willie Havenport in the 120-yard hurdles, 13.5; Lee Evans in the 440, 45.8; Pat Collins in the 880, 1:48.9; Juan Martinez, Mexico, in the 5,000 meters, 13:51.8; and Mike Manley in the 3,000-meter steeplechase, 8:43.6.

Also, Ron Whitney took the 440-yard intermediate hurdles 50.6; Chi Cheng won the women's 100, 10.5, and Doris Brown won the women's 880, 1:48.9.

In the field events, Jorma Kinnunen of Finland won the javelin at 282.0; Dick Rallsback took the pole vault, 17.0 3/4; George Frenn won the hammer throw, 214.7; Stan Whitley took the long jump, 26.1 1/2; Otis Burrell the high jump, 6.10; Jay Silvester the discus, 208.10; Pertti Poussi, the triple jump, 52.2 1/2; and Bruce Wilhelm the shot put at 64.8.

LEE ELDER SECOND

Fourth Round 65 Gives Dave Hill Memphis Open

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP)—Dave Hill, an outspoken, wisecracking character from Jackson, Mich., stormed out of the pack with a five-under-par 65 Sunday and won the $30,000 top prize in the Memphis Open Golf Tournament with a 72-hole score of 265.

The thin, wiry Hill, whose blunt pronouncements have occasionally put him in trouble with the PGA, was one of six tied for third, three strokes back of Bert Yancey and Lee Elder, going into the final round on the 6,485-yard, par 70 Colonial Country Club Course.

Yancey, spraying his short shots all over the course, bogeyed the first two holes and quickly fell back.

Elder, seeking his first tour victory, was steadier, but he too fell back.

Hill, 32, wrapped in an eight-foot birdie putt on the second hole and claimed another on the fourth. The slim Elder took a bogey on the same hole, and it was tied.

Hill went ahead to stay with a deuce on the 12th hole and birdied the 13th, reaching the par five in two.

It was his first victory since he won this same tournament two years ago and pushed his money winnings past $70,000 for the year.

Elder, one of the few Negroes on the tour, finished with a 70 for 267 and second place.

Tommy Aaron, six shots off the pace going into the final round, came home with a 65 for 268 and tied for third at that figure with Charles Coody, who had a last round 67.

U.S. Open champion Lee Trevino had a 68 for 271, well back in the pack.

The tight little course, one of the shortest on the tour, had been humbled by the long-hitting pros for three days but snapped back with gusty winds that sent scores soaring.

Yancey, winner of last week's Atlanta Classic, staggered in with a fat 76 for 273. South African Gary Player, who posted a triple bogey 6 on the third hole, finished with a 73 for 273.

Steve Reid, who had a fantastic 61 in Saturday's third round, finished with a 69 for 269 and fifth place.

Don January was next with a 67 for 270.

"I thought I had it won when I walked off the 14th tee," Hill said. "I told my caddy that if I could par the 14th and 15th, I'd have it. I knew I should get one birdie coming in and I didn't think Lee could catch me."

He had a total of six birdies and one bogey, the latter on the 15th when he missed the green to the right, used a putt to run it up the hill, but it was 15 feet by the pin and he missed the putt.

But he rallied with birds on the two par-5s the 16th and 18th, two putting each.

Lareau Shines In Track Meet

Dick Lareau, Warren High's ace hurdler, competed in the Pennsylvania Jaycees Track and Field Meet at Olney City on Memorial Day.

Running in three events, Lareau placed in the top three in all of them. A time of 15.8 in the 120-yard high hurdles topped the field and qualified him for the Jaycees State Track Meet at Harrisburg on June 14.

In the 180 low hurdles, the Warren junior turned in a 21.0 clocking, to finish second behind Bill Gabrys of Franklin, who covered the distance in 20.3.

Trying his talents for the first time in the triple jump, Lareau soared 41' 1" for a third place finish in the event. The only problem Dragon coach Tom Tourtellott will have with Lareau next year, will be determining which three events he should participate in. The versatile athlete also ran the 440 and in the mile relay during the 1969 track season.

Maryland Nips Villanova In IC4A Championships

NEW BRUNSWICK (AP)—Yes, Virginia, there is a field in track and field and Maryland proved it this weekend.

The Terrapins, who duel with Villanova semiannually for indoor and outdoor IC4A titles, won the outdoor version at Rutgers Stadium Saturday by edging the Wildcats 53-52.

They did it by compiling 45 of their points in field events while Villanova had a big fat zero in that phase of the competition.

But Villanova ran up five first places in Saturday's running events—including a 1-2-3 finish

Grid Owners Set Division Talk

NEW YORK (AP)—Club owners of the 13 teams remaining in what will be the National Football League's National Conference in 1970 convene Monday to try and realign themselves into two divisions of four teams and one of five.

The AFL, which will be known as the American Conference, set itself into three divisions for 1970 two weeks ago when club owners moved Cleveland, Pittsburgh and Baltimore into the 10-team AFL.

In the 440—and it took a fifth-place finish by Maryland's Tyrone Brown in the 120-yard high hurdles to clinch the Terrapins' third title in five years.

Maryland also had five winners, all in field events. They included Jack Bacon in the javelin and Chuck Drescher in the discus on Friday, and Bud Williamson at 15 feet 9 inches in the pole vault; Joe Davis, at 6 feet, 10 inches in the high jump, and John Hanley at 59 feet 8 3/4 inches in the shot put.

The meet continued the Maryland-Villanova domination of the IC4A championships. Villanova has won nine of the last 13 titles and only Penn State's win in 1959 has broken the string run by the Wildcats and Maryland.

Nobody else was close this year. Yale and Morgan State tied for third with 23 points each, and host Rutgers was fifth with 17. Thirty-two teams scored at least two points.

Villanova's winners included two Olympic silver medalists—Larry James who cruised to a 46.6-second quarter mile victory and Erv Hall, who won the 120 high hurdles in 13.9 seconds, despite an injured hamstring muscle.

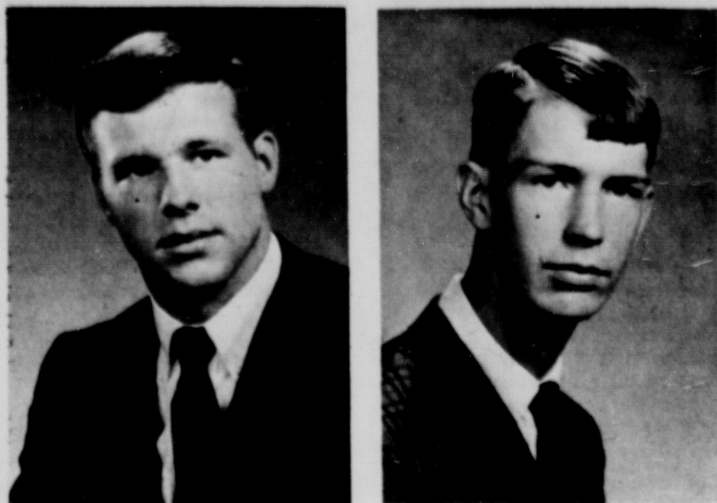

Americans Bow

PARIS (AP)—The last two American hopes—Stan Smith and Cliff Richey—were eliminated from the men's singles of the French open tennis championships Sunday, and the promoter-controlled profession- als were left almost in possession of the field.

Americans Bow

Rod Laver of Australia, top favorite for the first prize of $7,000, mastered Smith of Los Angeles, 6-4, 6-2, 6-4.

Denny Bonavita From The Sports Desk

Steve Tundel

Randy Jones

With graduation fast approaching, the plans of the local scholastic athletes are beginning to be finalized; some choose college, some choose or are chosen by the armed services, and some begin their work careers.

Warren High's slam-bang fullback, Steve Tundel, will be doing his football and track for Slippery Rock State College next season. An All-Section performer two years and honorable mention All-Stater, the 205-pounder also ran the dashes and competed in the shot in track. He'll major in either history or health and physical education.

And Randy Jones, the Dragons' 6-5 starting basketball center, is bound for Mansfield State College. His 14.5 points per game average and 13.9 rebounds is expected to aid coach Ed Wilson's inside attack on the Mountaineers. Geography will be his field of matriculation.

Youngsville's Ed Lawrence, one of the brightest spots in the young Eagles' lineup, will be attending Gannon College on a wrestling scholarship. Last year he gained seven wins against three losses and a tie.

Eagles' principal Felix Matthews also reports that we'll be seeing more of Kris Johnson and Tom Bureleigh, as they are headed for Warren Campus of Edinboro State College. Jack Maze has an athletic entree into New Castle Business College, while Dick Andrews is going to Jamestown Community College. The quartet was a good share of the Eagles' strength in three sports—football, basketball and track.

Sheffield's Rob Hart will be at Williamsport while Mark McGuire will join Maze on the basketball court for New Castle Business College.

Other athletes matriculating on campuses from Warren include gridiron star Tom Beckett at Slippery Rock, football, wrestling and track stalwart Dane Sorensen at Taylor University in Nebraska, majoring in phys-ed, wrestler Bob Seaquist at Marshall University in West Virginia, grappler Mike Maines to Edinboro's main campus, and Jeff Hunter to Gannon College in Erie.

There's going to be a coach on the back-to-campus parade this fall, also, as Mike Weber, who headed the Dragon wrestlers for five seasons, will be going to Carnegie-Mellon in pursuit of further graduate studies.

One athlete who won't be going anywhere this year—and I'd guess many Dragon coaches and fans will be glad—is Ed O'Neil, who has another year left at WAHS. The junior three-sport star recently got a clean bill of health on the leg injury that hobbled him in football season, eliminated his basketball season and slowed his track start. And that's good news for Warren fans next season.

Warren's Tim Ristau, outstanding in the javelin this past season at Lehigh University, will co-captain the track team next season. Ristau is in the College of Engineering.

SHORT SPORTS: Deane Beman is the latest "name" golfer to indicate he will attend the June 23 Cleveland Open at Cleveland's Aurora Country Club. He placed first in the Texas Open.

The Memorial Day weekend was blessed with beautiful weather, and area families took advantage of it to the fullest. Proving that baseball no longer has the hold on the public interest that it once did, there were precious few cars left idle if a check of area highways is any indication.

Most popular activities were outdoors-related, as boats dotted practically the entire length of the Allegheny Reservoir, and campers and tents blossomed at Chapman Dam, in the Allegheny National Forest and at the commercial areas. Family fishing was much in evidence, and perhaps the cutest sight of the weekend was a red-faced father trying to shush his obviously proud son as the freckled fella was telling the family, in a voice audible through the entire campsite, just how badly he out-fished his supposed tutor—and showing a chock-full stringer to back up his boast.

The un-cute was the rubble, discarded beer cans and assorted filth that clutter the roadside for a mile up Morrison Run, proving that a few two-legged pigs can ruin a once-beautiful spot for a family hike.

Probably one of the most surprised people over the weekend was Lou Critelli, former resident now of Columbus. Playing at Jackson Valley with yours truly, Lou cranked up for a mighty three-wood shot on No. 17—and the ball split.

GOREN ON BRIDGE

BY CHARLES H. GOREN
(19 F. by The Chicago Tribune)

ANSWERS TO BRIDGE QUIZ

Q. 1—As South vulnerable, you hold:

♠95 ♥Q1072 ♦Q4 ♣AK983

The bidding has proceeded:
West North East South

Pass 1♦ 1♠ 2♣

Pass 2♦ Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—Three diamonds. Raising with only a doubleton honor may seem a little risky, but is acceptable after partner has rebid his suit when no convenient call is available. Partner may now be in position to try three no trump.

Q. 2—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:

♥A1054 ♦AKQ105 ♣K961

The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East

1♣ Pass 1♠ Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—Two clubs. Although you are in possession of a fine hand, caution should be the byword, since no fit has as yet been established. A rebid of two clubs is best calculated to offer encouragement to partner to continue without crowding the auction.

Q. 3—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠A10 ♥AQ105 ♦K106 ♣AJ62

The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East

1♣ Dble. Pass 1♦

What do you bid now?

A.—One no trump. The tens make this hand a shade too strong to open with one no trump. When the bid is employed at this juncture in single-handed competition with the opposition, partner should play you for a very good hand.

Q. 4—As South vulnerable, you hold:

♠AK9 ♥74 ♦KQ2 ♣AK975

The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West

1♠ Pass 3♠ Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—Four diamonds. Your main concern is with the heart situation (partner could have a sound opening bid without either top heart honor) and Blackwood will not help you to the answer. The best procedure is to make a false cue bid of four diamonds and follow it up by overbidding the game in spades. If partner can stop the opponents from winning two heart tricks, he will be able to proceed to a slam on even the barest of minimums.

Q. 5—As South vulnerable, you hold:

♠63 ♥72 ♦1063 ♣AK10854

Your partner opens with one no trump. What is your response?

A.—Three no trump. True, you can't count up to the required 26 points, but the compensating feature of a six-card suit headed by the two top honors makes the bid a reasonable speculation. Since partner must not make a one no trump opening without at least Qx or xxx in clubs, chances of running the entire suit are good.

Q. 6—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠K1074 ♥63 ♦KQJ93 ♣43

The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West

1♠ Pass 1♦ Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—Pass. Partner has shown a minimum type opening bid opposite your nine points no game can be in contemplation.

Q. 7—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠76 ♥KQ105 ♦AJ42 ♣AJ10

The bidding has proceeded:
East South West North

Pass 1♥ 2♠ Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—Two diamonds. Although chances for game are just about nil since partner was unable to make a free bid, some further competition should be offered to prevent the opponents from making off with a cheap part score. You may succeed in driving them one level higher than they can afford to go.

Q. 8—As South vulnerable, you hold:

♠42 ♥AQJ952 ♦QJ2 ♣97

The bidding has proceeded:
West North East South

3♦ Pass Pass ?

What do you bid?

A.—Three hearts. West has announced a very weak hand and East did not have enough to go on so your partner is definitely marked with some values. If he has a good fit, there may even be a game in the offing.

Your Horoscope

By Frances Drake

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars, FOR MONDAY, JUNE 2, 1969.

ARIES (March 21 to April 20) — The manner in which you go about things, as well as your attitude in all issues and activities, will determine the amount and type of success you achieve now. The real YOU out front!

TAURUS (April 21 to May 21) — To escape into an interest, condition or activity in order to get away from another solves nothing. Face matters in a mature manner, and be philosophical about temporary delays.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21) — Be sure to be consistently straightforward and articulate now. Dress up an old idea, give an inert interest new life, be authentically eager.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23) — A fine lunar aspect now stimulates your personality and the activities you especially like. You may have to do some persuading, but you are good at this.

LEO (July 24 to August 23) — Your Sun's fine configuration gives a lift to your personality, enhances your attractive mannerisms and ability to spur matters to a livelier pace. A day for achievement.

VIRGO (August 24 to September 23) — Stop, think: Will the way you are planning to do a certain thing bring the results you wish? And will some factors seem to others as important as they are to you? Some revision may be needed here.

LIBRA (September 24 to October 23) — Find diversion in conventional ways and let others take the chances. You have YOUR principles but you cannot expect others to have like ones.

SCORPIO (October 24 to November 22) — This day advances many interests and activities, but most generally, the will to aim for better living and attainments. Projects close to your heart can be furthered notably with the right push.

SAGITTARIUS (November 23 to December 21) — A quiet, restful day? A vigorous one? It will depend upon several things: Your health, commitments, past tempo and the necessity of making changes, if any. Use your innate good judgment.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 20) — If someone deserves your time and talents, give where it will help, but refrain where too much is expected. And don't promise more than you can deliver.

AQUARIUS (January 21 to February 19) — A respite from tedious tasks should take the form of diversions to satisfy your mind, energies, and normal inclinations. Natives of this Sign delight in new interests, get-togethers.

PISCES (February 20 to March 20) — You now have more than a fair share of opportunities through which you can climb high on the ladder of worthwhile attainment. Discussion with experienced heads could give you valuable ideas.

YOU BORN TODAY are ambitious, versatile in your talents, generally a happy-go-lucky person, motivated by good will toward all. You have the potentialities for high attainment in many fields but, since you are restless and changeable in your desires, could stymie your own efforts if not on guard. Extremely adaptable, you can rise to any situation outstandingly, and can turn a simple, pleasant hobby into a lucrative business. The Gemini usually excels in writing, music, promotional ventures, any occupation which involves travel. You are self-sacrificing where loved ones are concerned, a charming and interesting companion. Faults to correct? A few: Impatience, impulsiveness, hypersensitivity and extravagance. Birthdate of: Thomas Hardy, novelist; Sir Edward Elgar, composer; Pope Pius X; Maurice Evans, Eng. actor.

How to Keep Well

GAS SNIFFING

It is difficult to believe some of the medical case histories. Dr. Nyda W. Brown of Augusta, Ga., reported the following in her state medical journal. A 15-year-old boy had been a gasoline sniffer for 10 years. The mother recalled that at 18 months, the tyke crawled onto his uncle's motorcycle and sniffed gasoline until he passed out. She found him lying in a stupor next to the vehicle.

By the age of 10, he was inhaling gasoline almost daily. The boy had a tent in the back yard where he kept a can of gasoline attached to a garden hose. He inhaled fumes until he became semi-conscious. Family and friends tried to discourage the habit, but no one was able to stop him. When 12 years old, he became argumentative and could not be disciplined.

The boy was a loner and his social life was vague, without any particular direction. Like others who misuse drugs and chemicals, he insisted that sniffing gas improved his skills.

At 15, he was having so much trouble at home that he was hospitalized. Tests showed that he was mentally deranged, but there was no evidence of brain damage. He told the physicians many odd stories including the following. There was so much trouble at home that he was going to leave, marry a rich girl, and continue gasoline sniffing. While hospitalized, a movie was made of how he looked after getting high. On viewing the film, the lad said that he would never do it again.

As in like situations, there are certain similarities. For example, the boy came from a troubled home and had an alcoholic father and a promiscuous mother. The youngster wanted to be identified with his father and stated that he would be happy to substitute beer for gas sniffing.

After going for a long time without the gas habit, he left the hospital. But his unstable family could not cope with the problem and eventually the lad had to be committed to the state hospital.

TOMORROW: Medical Browning.

Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.

CYSTIC FIBROSIS NOT CONTAGIOUS

L. S. writes: I would certainly appreciate an article or any information on cystic fibrosis. Is it contagious?

REPLY

Cystic fibrosis, a serious disease that usually affects children, is not contagious. An hereditary defect produces abnormal secretions of sweat and mucus. The mucus becomes so thick and sticky that the respiratory passageways are clogged causing difficult breathing, recurrent infections and coughing.

WHEN GRAYING STARTS

Miss G. G. writes: At what age is graying of the hair considered normal?

REPLY

Graying is normal for men in their forties, but premature when it occurs in women that age.
